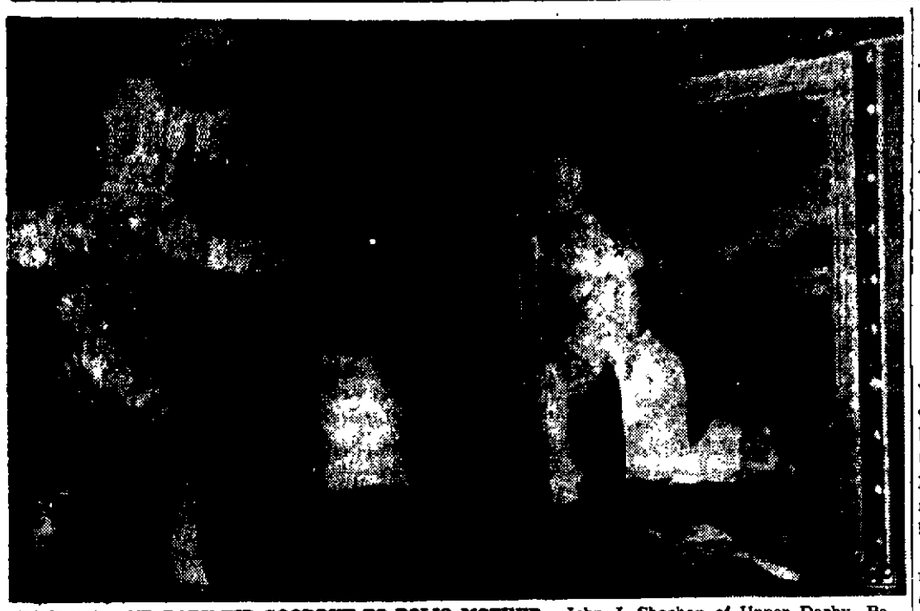
GREENLEASE KILLERS SENTENCED TO DIE



HUSBAND AND BABY BID GOODBYE TO POLIO MOTHER. John J. Sheehan of Upper Darby, Pa., and his 14-month-old son, Tommy, bid farewell to Mrs. Eileen Sheehan, 25, as she leaves Philadelphia aboard a train for Boston where she will undergo further treatment for polio. The young mother gave birth to the boy shortly after she was stricken with polio and was confined to an iron lung during the last year.

Action Slows Temporarily In Spy Probe

Jenner Committee Hearings on White Case Resume Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators investigating the Harry Dexter White case called a temporary lull today but gave no sign of abandoning their efforts because of President Eisenhower's suggestion that the need for such inquiries may soon be ended.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said he did not know where or how far the inquiry by the internal security subcommittee he heads would lead. The group's next session was set for Monday afternoon, but there was no announcement whether witnesses would be heard then.

Reports Reached Top

Jenner told newsmen that "for the first time we have been able to show" that FBI reports on suspected individuals "reached the hands of top officials," and he added it was impossible to say now what developments might follow.

Some Republicans and most Democrats seconded Eisenhower's hope, expressed at his news conference yesterday, that security firings may so completely solve the problem of alleged Red infiltration of government that the issue will be forgotten by next year's congressional campaign.

Eisenhower said he was not suggesting current congressional probes be called off.

The President declined to comment directly on the case of White, who Atty. Gen. Brownell says was promoted in 1946 by former President Truman in the face of FBI reports which, Brownell asserted, tagged White as a Soviet spy.

House Group Stepping Out

While Jenner's subcommittee planned to go ahead with its hearings, the only ones by a congressional group thus far in the White case, the House Un-American Activities Committee showed signs of stepping out of the case.

Rep. Clardy (R-Mich) announced in Lansing, Mich., yesterday that he saw no need now for a subcommittee to take testimony from Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, who was Truman's secretary of state at the time of White's promotion. Clardy had been named to head the subcommittee.

Eisenhower's remarks may have the effect of applying the brakes to his Cabinet members on any further forays in the communism-in-government field.

But it was plainly evident that Republicans in Congress and elsewhere intended to keep the ball rolling up to election time next November.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) prepared a radio-television reply Monday night to Truman's indictment of "McCarthyism."

Promises New Disclosures

Jenner promised the internal security subcommittee will have new disclosures on the operations of alleged spies in the Treasury after White was promoted from assistant secretary there to the International Monetary Fund.

Jenner challenged a telegraphic statement from John W. Snyder, who served as secretary of the Treasury under Truman, that any subversives in that department were weeded out during his tenure.

"We happen to know better than that," Jenner said.

Among those named as suspected of subversive activities in an FBI report to the White House late in 1945 were Maurice Halperin and Victor Perlo.

Halperin, 47, was suspended yesterday from a Boston University professorship.

Perlo, now a private economic consultant in New York, said last night the Republicans are trying to make people forget years of war

NAMED IN PROBE. Harold Glasser (above) was named in Senate Internal Security subcommittee evidence in Washington as having been promoted by former Secretary of Treasury John Snyder in 1946 after FBI reports had linked Glasser with Harry Dexter White.

Dean Hopeful In Wake of Red Compromises

May Provide Basis of 'Fruitful Negotiation,' U.S. Envoy Reports

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists said today they want neutral nations seated at the Korean peace conference only as observers. U.S. envoy Arthur Dean said the proposal "could offer a very fruitful basis for further negotiations."

Dean indicated the North Korean and Chinese diplomats have made a "prepared concession" and now appear to be awaiting further instructions.

Compromise Likely

There were growing indications that a compromise may be reached on the thorny issue of inviting neutrals to the peace conference—biggest issue to be settled at the preliminary peace talks here.

Dean is spokesman for 16 United Nations and South Korea, all of which have voiced opposition to neutral participation in the peace conference.

But the U.S. envoy noted that these nations assumed the Reds wanted neutrals to have full participation.

Interviews Off

Dean already has said the United States would be willing to recommend inviting neutrals after a Korean settlement is reached or if the peace talks bog down. The Reds rejected this.

Meanwhile, explanations to Korean and Chinese war prisoners who have refused to go home remained at a standstill and there were no signs that the Reds would resume the stalled interviews.

Charter Fund Raising Group To Be Formed

The Marion League of Women Voters took action Wednesday to spearhead organization of a community committee to raise operating funds for the Marion Charter Commission.

At a meeting of the League's board of directors held at the YMCA, Mrs. Frank Wanda of 801 Windsor St. was named temporary chairman of a community committee to be charged with the task of soliciting the funds.

Still in the formative stage, this committee will be made up of representatives of various service, civic, fraternal and other organizations active in community affairs. Once formed, the committee will elect permanent officers.

The Charter Commission at its meeting Monday night requested the League to raise $500 to cover commission costs. The Commission had suggested the League do this by contacting various organization in the city.

Mrs. Robert Axe, president of the League, said solicitation of funds for other organizations is against League policy and because of this, it was decided to organize the community committee.

While the League itself may not conduct the fund raising campaign, members will serve on the community committee and work to help insure success of the drive, Mrs. Axe said.

12-Man Jury Out Slightly Over an Hour

Judge Sets Dec. 18 as Date for Execution Of Hall, Mrs. Heady

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The kidnap killers of little Bobby Greenlease today were sentenced to die Dec. 18 for their crime.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal jury today recommended death for the kidnap killers of little Bobby Greenlease.

Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, the 41-year-old alcoholic, smiled slightly as the verdict was read.

Hall Expressionless

Carl Austin Hall, 34 year old wastrel, did not change expression.

Bobby's multi-millionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease, leaned forward on his chair to watch Hall's expression. Greenlease merely nodded his head in apparent approval of the verdict.

The jury announced Hall's verdict first.

It took the jury of 12 men one hour and seven minutes to give U. S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves authority to send the pair to the gas chamber. Judge Reeves had told the jury the two were cold blooded murderers and there were no mitigating circumstances for their crime.

Handed Slip of Paper

As the jurors walked into their room to decide the case each was handed a slip of paper that said: "Do you recommend the death penalty?"

All they had to do was write one word: Yes or no.

The jury returned to the courtroom in single file, passing with solemn faces directly in front of the two confessed kidnap killers.

Judge Reeves, a veteran of 30 years on the federal bench, spoke extemporaneously as he told the all male jury of western Missouri farmers and businessmen that the issue before them was simple:

Should Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old playboy who took to crime, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, his 41-year-old alcoholic mistress, pay the supreme price for their confessed crime?

The case was turned over to the jury at 10:45 a. m. CST.

Roy K. Dietrich, court-appointed attorney for Hall, said there would be no appeal in the case unless there was an invasion of Hall's constitutional rights.

"I will not appeal from life imprisonment," he said, "I asked the jury for that, and I couldn't very well appeal."

Dietrich said at this point in the case he saw no justification for an appeal.

The judge's instruction were short but clear as he carefully reviewed the case, point by point.

The judge paid particular attention to Hall's efforts yesterday to shoulder the full responsibility for the planning of the kidnap killing. He said under the law that anyone who aided in carrying out such a crime was equally guilty regardless of the extent to which he or she participated.

However, he said, in the case of Mrs. Heady there was no question that she had participated fully. The very fact that her hat had TESTIFIES IN DEFENSE OF HALL. Richard Travis (left) and John Latham, old friends of Carl Austin Hall, are among witnesses called on by defense counsel to testify that the murderer of Bobby Greenlease once was "normal," but returned from the war an altogether different person. Latham also told the jury that Hall's father kept him "well under control" and he implied there was no especial warmth between parent and son.

Wicks Resigns After Quarrel Over Pen Visit

Lieutenant Governor Of New York Quits but Claims Vindication

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Sen. Arthur H. Wicks formally stepped down as acting lieutenant governor of New York after a bitter quarrel with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey ending in victory claims by both camps.

The Republican row seemed certain to scar party unity and delight the Democrats in next year's election campaigns.

Wicks submitted his resignation yesterday as GOP majority leader and temporary president of the state Senate, through which he held the office of acting lieutenant governor. The action was announced minutes after Senate adjournment of a special session of the Legislature.

Dewey and the GOP State Executive Committee had insisted Wicks, because of visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing Prison, resign his leadership or be ousted at the special session.

Wicks maintained he had heard no word of censure from his fellow senators about his visits to Fay and claimed complete vindication. He said he resigned because his conflict with Dewey would impair state business.

157 Contribute Blood at Visit of Red Cross Unit

Volunteers numbering 157 contributed 144 pints of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit visited Marion Wednesday.

Registrations numbered 113 Wednesday morning and this number was cut down by cancellations due to colds and other unforeseen circumstances.

During the day 64 persons found time to stop in at the center in the First Presbyterian Church to make their contribution. Today the unit is at the Pollak Steel Co. plant.

Mrs. John P. Courtright, chairman of volunteer services was in charge. Doctors contributing their services were Dr. Philip W. Smith, Dr. M. M. Weinbaum and Dr W H. Whitehead. Registered nurses assisting were Mrs. John Messenger, chairman of nursing service, Mrs. Helen Herron, Miss Anna Zahn, Mrs. John Gillis, Mrs. Ann Sedelmaier and Miss Opal Ford. On the nurse's aide staff were Mrs. Goldie Swope and Mrs. Clarence Meister; motor service, Mrs. Bernard Moloney and Mrs. John Ritzler; canteen, Miss Elizabeth Ammann, Mrs. Harold Meister, Mrs. Owen Miller, Mrs. William Marble, Mrs. Walter Scranton, Mrs. Lowell Midlam, Mrs Burl Curry, Mrs. Emanuel Fogle, Mrs. Eugene Burnap, Miss Jessie Lindsey; Gray Ladies, Mrs. A. J. Wagner, Mrs. Wade Konkle, Mrs. Allan Morton, Mrs. A. J. Matson; staff aides, Mrs. M. C. Murphy, Mrs. Elta Trickey, Miss Mary Jo Stafford, Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. Gaile Baker, Mrs David Rizor, Mrs. F. B. Shannon.

Firemen assisting in setting up the unit were Bernard Sullivan, Orlo Hoover, John Lodwig, I. M Alexander, Keith Riddle, Frank Butterworth and Patrick Ring.

Line's the Same

Vishinsky Dresses Up Old Peace Offer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky has the floor in the U.N. today to present once again Russia's often-rejected peace package. This time he has added the hydrogen bomb to the list of mass destruction weapons he proposes should be banned immediately.

Vishinsky was due to push the Soviet omnibus peace proposal before the U.N. General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee.

Western spokesmen ave voiced their continued opposition to the Communist proposals and predicted the Assembly would reject them as it has overwhelmingly in the past.

Need Controls First

The West maintains that international controls must be set up and working before any weapons ban can be effective.

There are some differences in the Communist resolution this year, but generally it runs along the lines of previous Red proposals.

One significant deletion was the former Red proposal for a Big Five peace pact.

The Soviet resolution calls for an immediate ban of hydrogen, atomic and other mass destruction weapons and asks the Security Council to try to get an international agreement on control over the observance of the ban. It proposes that United States, Britain, France, Russia and Communist China reduce their armed forces by a third within one year, and wants the Security Council then to call "as soon as possible" a world conference to carry out arms reductions by all states.

No Foreign Bases

It also demands the elimination of military bases on foreign soil—obviously aimed at the land, sea and air bases the United States has established on the territory of its allies. And it asks for an end to propaganda which aims at "inciting enmity and hatred among nations and preparing a new world war . . ."

This gives Vishinsky a second crack at trying to push through his pet project. He injected the hydrogen and atom bomb ban proposal in the committee's debate on disarmament and was turned down yesterday.

The committee voted 54-0 in favor of a United States-backed resolution urging stepped-up efforts for world disarmament and proposing the major powers get together privately to try to bring this about. The five-nation Soviet bloc abstained.

3 Plead Guilty To Holdup in West Virginia

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Pleas of guilty to armed robbery charges in the $106,000 Sammons holdup have been entered by three Texans who previously had been scheduled to go on trial next month.

Phillip Anderson, 46, Harry Ward 43, and James Fugitt, 34, all of Dallas, were taken into Ohio County Intermediate Court unexpectedly yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty.

Armed robbery carries a sentence of 10 years to life, but Judge David A. McKee withheld sentence for the time being.

The three Dallas men and Mrs. Mary Balderson, 31, of Wheeling, had appeared before Judge McKee last Friday. None of the four entered pleas at that time, but McKee set Dec. 7 for their trials.

Mrs. Balderson, charged with being an accessory in the Oct. 13 robbery at the suburban Wheeling home of Dr. W. P. Sammons, still has not entered a plea. But her attorney said yesterday she would "go to trial."

Police claim Mrs. Balderson, a former cleaning woman in the pysician's home, supplied the information which enabled the men to carry out the robbery. They carried away three strong boxes full of cash after binding and gagging a maid and an elderly sister of the doctor, who were the only persons in the house.

Will Drive for Repeal

Mitchell's Advice to CIO On Taft-Hartley Refused

CLEVELAND (AP)—The CIO Convention paid little heed today to Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell's advice to quit talking about scuttling the Taft-Hartley Act.

Instead, it pushed ahead with a resolution calling for outright repeal of what it called an "unfair and unjust" law.

Will Hold Fast

CIO President Walter P. Reuther said the resolution, prepared well in advance of the new labor secretary's convention speech yesterday, would not be altered. There was no doubt that it would pass.

Mitchell told the 700 delegates that an approach to labor legislation starting "from the point of realism" would "preclude further talk of repeal of the act. . . ."

If such an approach were taken, he said, the administration and Congress could "concentrate on those features of the act which are really dangerous to labor, really loaded, really unfair."

His speech—a careful statement of administration policy—drew only mild applause. It was Mitchell's first major address since he took over last month from Martin P. Durkin, who quit the Cabinet in a dispute with President Eisenhower over T-H law changes.

Drive for Repeal

The Taft-Hartley resolution pledged the CIO to "devote all of its energies and resources" to seek the law's repeal. It accused the Eisenhower administration of not keeping its "solemn pledge to the American people to amend Taft-Hartley so as to make it a just, fair and decent law."

Mitchell told the convention: "There is no disposition in this

Pageant Set Nov. 28

Christmas Parade Again To Stress Biblical Spirit

Nine churches will enter floats in this year's Christmas Pageant which will be held Saturday, Nov. 28 at 1 p.m. the sponsoring Reta Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce announced today.

This marks the third consecutive year religion has been stressed in Marion's Christmas parade. Santa Claus will be included in the parade, but will be one or two blocks behind the rest of the floats. Purpose of this move, said Jack Lautenslager, assistant Chamber secretary, is to allow the first section to retain as much a thoroughly religious spirit as possible.

COOPERATING IN this year's parade are the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce, the Marion County Ministerial Association, and the individual churches.

In addition, bands from Caledonia High School and Harding High School have agreed to march. The Caledonia group will lead the entire parade while Harding's band will accompany the Santa Claus float.

Churches participating and their themes are: Central Christian Church, "Peace on Earth"; Wesley Methodist Church, "The Prophecies"; St. Paul's Episcopal Church, "The Annunciation"; Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, "Glory to God"; Greenwood Evangelical United Brethren Church, "Christian Christmas at Home"; Epworth Methodist Church, "Prince of Peace"; Prospect Street Methodist Church, "They Came Bearing Gifts"; Trinity Baptist Church, "The Light of the World"; and First Evangelica and Reformed Church, "The Christian Hope."

Theme of the pageant this year is the title of the first float in the parade, "Peace on Earth." All churches have constructed their own floats for use in the pageant. They were assisted financially by the Retail Merchants, but supplied all their own labor and made their own designs.

Route of the pageant this year will be from Park Blvd., where the parade assembles, to W. Center St., east on W. Center St. to Main St., south on S. Main St. to Church St., east on E. Church St., to S. State St., north on S. State St. to E. Center St., west on E. Center St. to Main St., and north on N. Main St. across the railroad tracks, where the parade will disband.

Christmas music will be broadcast from the Courthouse to add to the Yuletide spirit. Music played by the two bands will also be of a Christmas nature.

THE PARADE will be escorted by city police. The route of the pageant will be blocked to all traffic while the parade is in progress.

Persons riding the floats will be members of the congregations which built them. The themes, titles, and design of each float were originated by members of the churches.

Enthusiastic response to the last two parades, which were of a religious nature, prompted the Chamber of Commerce to again have a religious pageant this year, Lautenslager said.

Four Are Indicted By Federal Jury In Case at Dayton

CINCINNATI (AP) — The federal grand jury yesterday indicted four men on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with a piece of equipment at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton.

Named in the indictments were Helsmuth C. Hannemann, Carl W. Rohrssen, Samuel A. Mays and William H. Hine.

It was charged Hannemann and Rohrssen promised to give $1,500 to Clyde E. Wheeler, airman first class, to make a favorable report on an automatic lap belt.

Wheeler was said to be an engineering aid in the aircraft laboratory at the Air Force base.

According to the indictments, the men made the bid in trying to sell the product of the Aircraft Belt & Trim Corp., Los Angeles.

Ben Grossman, Marvin Grossman, Arnold Grossman, Herbert Grossman and Herbert Romanoff, all of Columbus, were indicted on a charge of furnishing inferior wiping cloths to the Navy.

50 in County Take Free Diabetes Test

A total of some 50 persons in Marion County have taken the diabetes detection test so far this week.

The tests are being given free of charge by Marion County physicians who are cooperating with the American Diabetes Association, sponsors of the week-long diabetes detection campaing which ends Saturday.

Non of the tests given Wednesday proved positive, according to Dr. Charles Wilson, chairman of the local committee in charge of the campaign. Only one positive report has been returned so far in the drive which entered its fourth day today.

Misjudged Russia

U.S. Erred in Disarming Japanese, Nixon Claims

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon, in a bold bid for a rearmed Japan, said today "the United States made a mistake in 1946" when it ordered destruction of the remnants of Japanese military might.

Nixon's dramatic review of American policy first startled, then obviously pleased some 700 top Japanese leaders. There was quick praise from Japanese who long have insisted demilitarization was a costly mistake.

Misjudged Intentions

"We misjudged the intentions of Soviet leaders" at the end of World War II, Nixon told the influential Japan-America Society.

Since then, he said, "the threat from the Communist nations—with the threat centered in Moscow" has prevented the free world from living in peace.

"It is because we want peace and believe in peace," Nixon added, "that we (the United States) have rearmed since 1946 and we believe that Japan and other nations should share the same responsibility.

"We felt disarmament was proper in 1946. We looked ahead, hoping against hope that it would be possible to attain a peaceful world. Since that time, the Communist threat has gained in power—wars have begun.

"If we want peace, we must be militarily stronger than the Communist nations."

New Line of Approach

Informed quarters said Nixon's speech apparently inaugurated a new soft line of persuasion in dealing with Japan.

The Japanese strongly resented statements by Sen. William F.

MT. VICTORY—Mrs. Lena Rumer, 49, of Ridgeway died Wednesday at 10:10 a.m. in Hardin Memorial Hospital at Kenton. She had been seriously ill the past four months.

Born in St. Johns, O., on June 16, 1904, she was a daughter of Sherman and Millie Jacob.

A housewife, she had lived in the Ridgeway vicinity for 25 years and was a member of the Ridgeway Church of Christ. Her marriage to John Rumer was on Oct. 13, 1922.

Survivors are her mother, Mrs. Millie Shroyer of Ridgeway; her husband, John; three brothers, Faylor Jacob of Springfield, Lester Jacob of Kenton and Raymond Jacob of Mt. Victory; and a half-sister, Mrs. Eva Armentrout of Springfield.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Charles Iams residence in Ridgeway with Rev. Leland Quay of Ridgeway officiating. Burial will be in Ridgeway Cemetery.

The Sherman-Mackey Funeral Home of Mt. Victory is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Samuel A. Dye

GALION—Galion's oldest citizen, and descendant of one of the city's founders, Mrs. Rebecca Dye died Wednesday at 4.45 p.m., at her home, at the age of 101.

Although she had been suffering with a cold for several days which kept her in bed, Mrs. Dye's death was unexpected. She had been in a wheel chair part of the time in recent months. Debility of age with terminal pneumonia was given as the cause of death by Mrs. Dye's physician.

Even in her late years, Mrs Dye was quite alert and aware of the activities of her family. She had always had a good appetite, and she had a busy life with the rearing of 10 children. Several falls in her later years would confine her to bed and to a wheel chair and even the cane she had depended upon, but because of her exceptional energy she fell again shortly after her 98th birthday. Since that time she had not walked, but she was able to be in her chair.

Mrs. Dye was born Sept. 22, 1852, in Galion, the daughter of Jacob and Mary Ann Ruhl Ness. Her grandfather, Michael Ruhl, and his brother, founded Galion in 1831.

Mrs. Dye was married to Samuel Alexander Dye, and he died Nov. 1, 1912.

Surviving are three sons, and two daughters: Harry Dye of Galion, Lewis Dye of Mt. Gilead, Kenneth Dye of Columbus, Mrs. Fred C. Christman of Crown Point, Ind., and Mrs. Ralph P. Thomas of Galion; a niece, Mrs. Ollie Crispin of 134 Uhler Ave., Marion; 17 grandchildren; 33 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Dye was preceded in death by three sons and two daughters, four sisters and one brother.

Rev. Herbert S. Garnes Jr., pastor of First Lutheran Church, where Mrs. Dye was a member, will officiate for services Saturday at 2 p.m., in the Volk Funeral Home. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery. Friends may call after 7 p.m. today at the funeral home.

Frank Cooper Rarick

MT. GILEAD — Frank Cooper Rarick, 56, farmer of Franklin Township, Morrow County, died suddenly Tuesday at 3.30 p.m. at home. Cause of death was pronounced heart attack.

Born March 26, 1897, at Lewistown, Pa., he was a son of Frank and Sarah Rarick,. He was a member of the Moose Lodge.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs Freda Rarick, and children, Frank Rarick, in the U. S. Army stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., and Alfred, Lawrence, and Sheila, all at home, and sisters and brothers, Mrs. Edna Wyandth and Horace Rarick, both of Lewistown, Mrs. Mary Jenkins of Reading, Pa., and Jack Rarick who is in the U. S. Navy.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Craven Funeral Home in Mt. Gilead. Burial will be in Maple Grove Cemetery at Chesterville.

Sen. Knowland Outlines Issues in White Spy Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif), the Senate majority leader, declared last night the issue in the Harry Dexter White case is the "laxity" of the Truman administration in appointing persons to office whose loyalty was questioned.

Knowland addressed a $25-a-plate Oklahoma Republican fund-raising dinner. He said the Eisenhower administration has shown a more realistic approach to the infiltration of security risks in government.

Ignorance Has No Excuse

J. Edgar Hoover's unique influence in federal affairs made him the key witness in the congressional review of the Harry Dexter White case.

When Mr. Hoover testifies that the Federal Bureau of Investigation kept the executive department informed about White and other persons whose loyalty was in question, that closed the case.

No one doubts Hoover's word or his motives. He has the confidence of the whole country.

Here was a situation like the one at Pearl Harbor—where the officials with responsibility for the security of the United States had all the information they needed but failed to act on it.

He has made that clear.

He has made something else clear. Atty. Gen. Brownell, his present department chief, and many of Brownell's predecessors have taken Hoover's word for it that the federal government needs a new law on wire-tapping.

This is why.

As matters stand now, wire-tapping may be used, as it was used in the investigation of White and others, for the guidance of the FBI.

Yet, the FBI is forbidden to use what it learns as evidence in federal court proceedings.

The United States has tied its own hands.

This happened in the White case. It has happened in other cases where the FBI had all the information it needed to protect U. S. security even though the information could not be admitted as court room evidence.

Many persons have been asking what is going to come out of the revelations about White other than deepened conviction that President Truman and his associates were curiously slow about getting rid of subversives they inherited from President Roosevelt and his associates.

One thing could be a federal law giving the FBI authority to release as evidence for judicial prosecution the kind of information which FBI director Hoover turned over to the government when his bureau compiled the record on suspected traitors.

A Trip of Happy Accord

It is not enough in these times for nations to maintain diplomatic representatives at capitals of other countries, even those bearing the formidable title of ambassador and envoy plenipotentiary, which latter simplifies down to a person empowered by his home government to speak and act for it officially with plenty of leeway and without having to return to home base every day for orders.

Today, it is common practice for princes, kings, queens, foreign ministers, field marshals and presidents (not to mention an occasional vice president and senators bent on close-hand research) to pay formal visits. We have had a few such visits from foreigners, but our presidents have been too coy, or too busy, to go in much for trans-border housequesting.

It was a pleasing thing all around for President Eisenhower to go to Canada for a couple of days, and just the fact of the visit probably firmed-up what, tritely, are referred to as "traditional good relations" between the two countries.

"This continent," President Eisenhower told the Canadians in a formal address, "Of course is a single physical and geographical entity." That was the crux of the whole trip. Little was said—and little needed to be said—about dangers common to both the U. S. and Canada from an un-named potential enemy, or the necessity for joint and amicable action if that enemy ever shows up.

Canada is a member of the British Commonwealth, but of course is fully sovereign, in position to side with us actively in case of conflict or, of course, to remain neutral. If Canada should be invaded by enemy planes crossing the Arctic wastes (quite within reasonable speculation) the U. S. would put our own fighting planes into action.

On "informal" or state visits, national leaders have ways of making known definite assurances without coming right out and saying so. Fortunately, the Canadians understand American English—and Eisenhower can speak it.

Union Absolutists

Demands heard by delegates to the CIO convention in Cleveland for the immediate resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Atty. Gen Brownell may be extended to other members of the Eisenhower cabinet before the delegates go home.

Here is one of the most interesting of all political developments—this attitude of irreconcilability on the part of a labor organization. The CIO is only a little more extremist in its policy than the AFL.

Both organizations are dominated by men who seem to feel that whatever they cannot dominate must therefore be 100 per cent opposed to them. They hold an attitude of absolutism which is foreign to the spirit and the structure of a republic.

Yet the members of their organizations are typical of the general run of American citizens. Labor unionists as a whole are criss-crossed with all the loyalties and animosities of the citizenship as a whole.

Less Than Candid

Truman's Explanations Raise Doubts on Veracity

The whole truth, and nothing but the truth would have been a better defense for former President Truman than the attempt in his radio-television talk on Monday night to make a political speech of the "give-'em-hell" variety which he has used so often in the past.

Merely to call Attorney General Brownell a liar was not an answer to the nation-wide demand for the facts—and all the facts—of the episode wherein Harry Dexter White, admittedly known by Mr. Truman in February 1946 to have been accused in FBI reports of being tied up with a Communist spy ring, was nevertheless given a government post of international importance.

The curious argument that Mr. Truman retained White in office in order to keep him in surveillance sounded impressive on the radio-television because it implied that the whole thing was known to high officials and that the FBI was party to such an agreement.

NOW, ON THE SWORN testimony of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, the American people know that the FBI didn't favor that course and that it would have been impracticable to carry it out and that, indeed, if it was ever anybody's intention to do so, no precautions actually were taken—as the FBI chief testifies—to prevent Harry White from continuing his dangerous activities in transmitting information through subordinates and close associates who were also accused of being in the Soviet spy ring.

Also Mr. Truman failed to tell the people why he wrote two effusive letters of commendation—one when White became U. S. executive director of the International Monetary Fund in April 1946, and the other on April 7, 1947, just after White resigned.

Mr. Truman's outbursts of indignation against the attorney general sound hollow indeed now in the face of the testimony of Mr. Brownell and Mr. Hoover.

IT WOULD have been far better for the former president if he had from the very start admitted that he had received the FBI report, that he regarded it seriously but that he didn't fire White because he wasn't completely convinced by the record then, or because those persons to whom he delegated the reading of it didn't convince him it was a clear case.

Maybe Mr. Truman got mixed up between a matter of security inside the government and a matter of espionage in the courts.

In the latter instance, wire-tap evidence cannot be used, and in the former it wasn't necessary to furnish any evidence to anyone except the president himself to get a suspect fired.

Many people generally have not understood the difference between a loyalty procedure which involves the right of the government to dismiss an employe without a court proceeding, and a grand jury indictment and prosecution thereafter based on vaguely written laws of espionage on which it is difficult even today to convict anyone except a person who has virtually confessed to treason.

-:-

MR. TRUMAN might well have made a clean breast of the whole business and told the country that the climate today is different than what it was in 1946, and that many things have been verified today that weren't as clear then.

It would have been a more plausible defense politically.

As it is, the former president with an emotional speech Monday night endeavored through political tactics and name-calling to confuse the issue and leave an impression that it is all just partisan politics.

It would be more unfortunate, indeed, if, in spite of the fact that so many Democrats in Congress have fought intensely against Communist infiltration in the government, the Democratic party would now range itself on the side of softness toward Communism inside the government.

It would make voters hesitant to return the Democratic party back to power because it had not frankly acknowledged the mistakes made in handling communists in government during the last 20 years.

AN EXAMPLE of the reaction here to the Truman speech is to be found in an editorial in "The Washington Post" which has vigorously denounced the methods of congressional committee investigations and has for many months taken the so-called "liberal" side of the debate on the issue.

The editorial appeared before Mr. Brownell's or Mr. Hoover's testimony before the Senate committee was known. It read in part:

"Whatever Mr. Truman's motives may have been, he has stooped to repeated deception of the people as to how this case was handled. His shifting explanations leave a question as to whether there will be still other versions of what was done as new facts are brought to light. We cannot help thinking that his jibes at Mr. Brownell would come with better grace if he had acknowledged his own faulty judgment and his lack of candor in accounting to the people for his stewardship."

Honest Confessions

By TRUMAN TWILL

More honest confessions that are good for the soul:

When controversial matters are being aired on television, I talk back at the speakers, looking them right in the eye and lifting one corner of my lip in a disgusted sneer.

Many friends have confided to me that enforced abstinence from beefsteak during the last two wars has taken away their appetite for this once highly prized delicacy. I feel that way too.

There has been no butter served at our house since the price of the stuff went out of sight. It is on the same budget basis as caviar, lark wings, truffles and Scotch grouse—something for the over-privileged rich. Yet, no one ever seems to mind the other stuff.

I am confident most fathers would be happier this coming Christmas if their loved ones would lay off miscellaneous gifts and go together to buy the old man something he wants for himself.

People who used to laugh when my mother larruped a balky washing machine with a machinist's hammer which she kept handy on washdays don't see any humor now in their practice of bopping the gawk box with a closed fist when something happens to the sound portion of the TV show.

The most startling thing about the new movies to some of us who have been enjoying shadowland in our living rooms is the technique whereby sound comes at the audience from more than one direction and is in proportion to the scope of the picture.

I can see no hope of progress in government as long as the governed have a stomach for sensationalism. On the other hand, if voters finally get a bellyfull of that stuff and turn discriminating, this can be Utopia if that's what they want it to be.

With my football days far to the ear, it wasn't until this fall that I ever learned how to make that cussed ball spiral when I winged it into the wild blue yonder. And I have despaired of ever learning to punt the thing.

When I had to slow down to keep from running over a flock of pheasants then saw a brace of deer in an adjoining field while driving to work the other morning I had as big a thrill as if I'd had a chance to ogle a glamor babe in a bistro, which just goes to show.

In the same year that I have read Slim Lindbergh's heart-pounding account of his flight across the Atlantic in 1927, a member of my family has departed on an airplane flight to Scotland with no special fuss, which also goes to show.

I am sure that the problem of paying for heavy-duty roads used by interstate trucks is going to be solved eventually by tolls collected on a weight-mileage basis. But I am equally sure that when this happens something precious will have been lost in America; i.e., freedom of movement.

I trust men who wear odd-looking shoes and have suffered untold agonies over a pair of suede things a glib salesmen talked me into buying three years ago and which won't be worn out for two more years.

Business magazines are playing up the importance of the do-it-yourself doctrine among home owners. But they are playing down the significance of the main motives. One is desire to have it done right. Another is the desire to save what in many cases have become exorbitant labor costs for routine artisanship. The third is the desire to prove you can do it.

Some day this winter I am going to cut down a tree.

Mossadegh Old Hand at Dethronements

By J. L. Hays

TEHERAN

This is not the first time 74-year-old Mohammed Mossadegh has faced the death penalty for plotting the dethronement of a shah of shahs.

The hook-nosed, hooded-eyed Mossadegh had a crack at the present shah's father, the tough old Cossack leader Reza Khan, when he seized the throne of Darius in 1926.

Alone among the Majlis deputies, Mossadegh rose to protest: "I am against this — it is contrary to our law."

Reza turned beady brown eyes on him, marked him down as an enemy — but bided his time. Three years later, Mossadegh lifted his thin and shaking body (his main trouble: stomach ulcers) from his plush Majlis chair to accuse Reza of "rigging elections."

THIS TIME he did not wait for Reza's reaction. He fled to Majlis chamber, and lived in retirement on his estates for 13 years.

But Reza patiently held his hand until early in World War II. Then, suddenly, he struck — arresting Mossadegh for "plotting against the state," flinging him into an underground dungeon and threatening him with death.

Reza's own days were numbered, though. Soon he was exiled by the British for pro-Axis activities and Mossadegh ascended into the daylight — to find that the mind of his adored 17-year-old daughter, Khadija, had been clouded by worry for him and that she had been sent to a Swiss sanitorium.

AN ARISTOCRAT himself (his mother was a Kajar princess, his father Persia's finance minister for 30 years), Mossadegh had always hated the Reza Khan's family as "upstarts and despots." But now his hate hardened and crystalized into the ruthlesss brand of republicanism which led him into his present trial.

Yet it was an earlier shah — Sultan Ahmed, known as the "grocer-boy shah" for his habit of buying up Persia's grain crop for resale to the peasantry at a handsome profit — who gave Mossadegh his name. For "Mossadegh" means "one who has been tested and found worthy."

Anyway, the worth-and-tested one got away with his shah-baiting last time (with a bit of luck) and the odds are he will do so again — if his luck holds.

THE TRUTH IS, of course, that even in captivity — even facing the death penalty for ignoring the shah's dismissal order and for dissolving the Majlis "without proper authority" — the man who was the bedridden dictator of 30,000,000 Persians for 26 hours is still a hero in the eyes of too many of them for the joint peace of mind of the shah and Premier Zahedi.

There are not many Persians (outside the army and the aristocracy) who believe that the man who kicked "hated Anglo-Iranian" out of Abadan should hang — even if he did slip up (forgetting the Persian proverb: "You cannot hold two watermelons in one hand") in trying to extend his 28 months of "rule-by-swoon" into a republican dictatorship.

To most Zenophobic Persians, Mossadegh still remains victor of Abadan, Patriot No. 1, friend of the people and West-baiter-in-chief.

For whole centuries of political assassinations, revolutions and riots have provided the dagger-worshipping Persian electorate with a breadth of mind concerning their political characters which taxes Western credulity.

SO YOUNG HIKERS, chanting pro-Massadegh slogans on their way back into Teheran from the mountains, have been slung into jail by Zahedi. Several men — including a Majlis deputy — have been bundled off into exile on a lonely island in the Persian gulf for shouting, "Long live Mossadegh," as they left a mosque. Teheran's police are fighting a losing battle with students nightly posting up the old man's portrait on the capital's walls.

But most serious of all — for the shah's side — is that the Moscow-subsidized Tudeh boys, never slow to exploit a cause close to non-Communist hearts, have made Mossadegh's misfortune their special concern. Should Mossadegh ever go to the gallows, Red rabblerousers (and Zahedi has not rounded them all up) would do splendid business.

Mechanics of Thought

By Thomas R. Henry

The electrical energy of single, microscopic nerve cells now is being measured at the National Institute of Mental Diseases in Washington.

This is being accomplished by Dr. Carl Frank of the institute staff with a glass electrode less than one 50-thousandth of an inch in diameter—probably the most delicate instrument yet used in neurological research. This is a hollow tube filled with a salt solution that conducts electricity. It is connected with a wire leading to an amplifying device outside the body which increases the minute impulses many thousandfold. The electrode is inserted directly into an individual nerve cell. Two can be put in a single cell, it has been determined, without interfering with its normal activity.

Thus far Dr. Frank's experiments have been confined to never cells in the spinal cord and have dealt with quite specialized problems. There is no reason, however, why the electrodes could not be inserted into individual cells in the brain's gray matter and thus lead to a better understanding of the mechanisms of thinking.

Special attention is being given at present to the so-called "retrograde wave," a phenomenon which has puzzled neurologists for years.

A nerve fiber, or series of nerve fibers, carries an impulse to a nerve cell. This, in turn, transmit the impulse to another nerve fiber leading to a gland or a muscle.

The nature of the impulse itself is not well understood. In some respects it is like a current of electricity, and in others like a train of gunpowder. It does not lose intensity as it progresses.

Almost always when the nerve cell is reached there is a kick-back along the same fiber which has carried the impulse. This is usually slight and with the new type of electrode it can be measured accurately for the first time.

This kick-back seems to serve no purpose in the mechanism of the nervous system, but the National Institute experimenters are convinced there must be a reason since it is universal through the animal kingdom.

Do you suppose if we said the latest hit in Yugoslavia was "Trieste, I Love You," anybody would realize it was sort of a parody on "P.S., I Love You" Probably not, although on a similar occasion, "Dancing iWth Tears In My Eyes" got quite a giggle.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Bermuda Huddle

Bermuda is all set for the Big Three Conference and the boys have certainly picked a nice climate for it. There are few places on earth where it is hardr to be belligerent, impatient or even mildly irritable. And it is a spot where it is hard to picture a Russian leader finding any comfort whatever.

Table-thumping is foreign to the Bermuda Isle. It is not prohibited.

If a visitor wishes to thump a table (which is most unlikely) he may do so, but no real Class A Table Thumper would choose it. Thump any piece of furniture, blow your stack or otherwise perform noisily there and you feel absurd.

-:-

Wild gestures are regarded as out of bounds in Bermuda, too. Hurling the 50-pound vituperation makes you feel awful. We think that if Mr. Vishinsky or Mr. Malik were given the signal for full speed ahead with their loudest excoriations, accusations, demands and vetoes in Bermuda, they would feel silly before they went into their act.

Gromyko against a background of lilies and twittering birds would seem incongruous.

The Russians would feel miserable doing their stuff in a mood of moonlight and roses, lovers in the parks, soft music, tinkling laughter and in the presence of people living happily and suspecting nobody. Which is probably why Moscow has never shown any interest in attending a Bermuda huddle.

-:-

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Prime Minister Laniel can be tough babies. They are battlers. But you associate them with poise, balance, restraint and kindness.

It is not hard to think of them lolling on a beach, taking a swim or watching honeymooners waltzing in a patio. But it is difficult to picture Vishinsky in shorts rubbing oil-tan on his arms; the image of Malik relaxing on a tropical beach unguarded and at peace with the world comes hard.

A hot sun, we fear, would be blamed on capitalistic warmongers. We hope the pictures of Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel in Bermuda get a big play all over the world and that some of them reach Russia.

We would even like to see the Big Three send a cable to Malenkov: "Having wonderful time; wish you were here. Don't forget to put out the cat. Ike, Winnie and Joseph."

Rodgers & Hammerstein are to make a musical of Steinbeck's "Cannery Row." We have the perfect title for it: "Can-Cannery."

Program covering the Harry Dexter White case for TV should be called "White's My Line."

Russel Crouse is so excited and jumpy at openings of his plays that you have to throw a butterfly net over him to get close contact. At the New Haven opening of his "The Prescott Proposals," we discovered he was wearing roller skates. Kate Cornell is cast as a top lady delegate to U.N. and we hasten to say that if a few delegates there were as beautiful as Kate the fight for better global understanding would get somewhere.

Felix Aylmer as Britain's delegate to U.N., however, does it all in pantomime and could bring on a war by his failure to make himself heard beyond the third row.

Were you shocked by the presence of Admiral Nomura, Japanese ambassador to Washington at the time of Pearl Harbor, being at the Arlington Cemetery tributes to the American war dead?

President Eisenhower's recent statement that he had never heard of White jars us. We knew he had been busy but we thought he had time during the past ten years to read the newspapers.

Of Charles (Dutch) Frazier who was killed two years ago, November 19, 1951.

Now that he is laid to rest,
Past and gone, 'twas God's request.
The end of life's long trail has past
To where north winds have no chilly blast.
And as he lies in sacred soil,
Free from life's suffering and toil,
His name will be remembered
Among many mounds of green,
With initials carved upon a slab,
Forever will be seen.

Secretaries Group Entertains Mothers At Dinner Program

Following an annual custom members of the Marion Chapter, National Secretaries Association entertained their mothers at dinner and a program Tuesday evening. The Presidential Suite at Hotel Harding was the setting and speaker for the evening was Dr. Kenneth W. Keever, founder of the Magnetic Springs Polio Foundation.

Mrs. Florence Dixon, vice president, presided and the honor guests were welcomed by Mrs. Vivian E. Rife, president who also gave a tribute to the mothers.

In his talk Dr. Keever told of the bringing into reality a dream which had its beginning at Warm Springs, Ga., to aid in the recovery of polio patients and helping them to live a normal life. He explained the different types of polio and the treatment necessary in the slow process of restoring the afflicted members. He also demonstrated several apparatus for use by the patient and also for use in the prevention of deformities. The training of patients in helping themselves is a major step in the process of recovery, Dr. Keever said, and added that many times the patient has ideas for some apparatus which prove beneficial when developed by the doctors. In discussing the progress being made in the study of polio treatment Dr. Keever believes that by late 1955 or '56 a vaccine will be discovered which will be a tremendous help in battling the disease. He also outlined some of the plans for the operation of the Foundation.

For roll call the members introduced their guests. The U-shaped table was centered with an arrangement of autumn flowers in varied colors and slender tapers in wrought iron candelabra. Guest favors were varied colored handkerchiefs.

Guests included Mrs. L. J. Fabian, Mrs. T. E. Dennis, Mrs. B. J. Beeman, Mrs. Posie Greene, Mrs. Carl Prettyman, Mrs. George Galloway, Mrs. Carl Haberman, Mrs. Edward Watt, Mrs. Jennie Hyams, Mrs. J. P. Coughlin, Mrs. Robert Meister, Mrs. W. S. Nagel, Mrs. J. L. Nickelson, Mrs. George Sifritt, Mrs. Millie Kraner, Mrs. Helen Bushman, Mrs. Elmer Bierce, Mrs. A. E. Mautz, Miss Ruth Dell Auman, Miss Isabelle Stengel, Miss Edna Dutton and Dr. Keever.

Boston Courthouse Fails To Comply With Building Code

BOSTON (AP) — The owners of a downtown office building were brought into Municipal Court for violating Boston building laws.

The complaint held the Little Building had revolving doors but no swinging doors alongside them for use in case of panic.

Judge Joseph Riley dismissed the complaint when Building Inspector William F Gildea said the swinging doors had been installed.

Then Gildea added the information that the Suffolk County Courthouse, where the hearing was being held, didn't have the required swinging doors.

Today the Suffolk County Building Commission is pondering the situation. An architect has informed them the entire building front will have to be remodeled to install the doors.

$2 Billion Hike In Air Defense Funds Sought

Program Outlined by Rep. McCormack Aims At Protection of U.S.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Rep. John W. McCormack (D-Mass) said today Democrats will fight in the next session of Congress for a two-billion-dollar increase in air defense funds to provide "adequate protection for American cities and American people."

McCormack, assistant Democratic leader in the House, said such a program could provide radar, interceptor planes and other devices to knock out all but 10 per cent of enemy bombers in any sudden attack.

Currently, he added, "it is a disgraceful situation—in case of a sneak attack our defenses are such that 70 per cent of the attacking planes can get through."

Rep. Winstead (D-Miss) a member of the House Armed Forces Committee who returned last week from an eight-week inspection tour of American military bases abroad said in a separate interview he is convinced "we certainly must strengthen our air defenses at home as rapidly as possible."

He added that two billion dollars to finance such a program "could be saved easily" from foreign aid. "We have been spending money recklessly in some countries which are contributing little to the free world defense," he said. "We must concentrate our aid in the key countries which are cooperating with us."

Rep. Fisher (D-Tex), another committee member, said he would favor increased air power, a complete radar screen, and all-out development of guided missiles.

The Eisenhower administration has indicated it favors boosting air defense funds, but by a much smaller amount than urged by MCormack. Secretary of Defense Wilson has suggested perhaps half a billion dollars.

Couple in Florida Anticipated Twins, Have Quadruplets

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Doctors said they would know sometime today what chance the Hijab quadruplets have for survival.

The quads, three girls and a boy, were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Wasfi Ahmad Hijab, both graduate students at the University of Florida. They were born prematurely and were placed in incubators without being weighed.

Dr. Raymond S. Camp estimated their weight at between two and three pounds each. Early today the infants were reported doing nicely.

The Hijabs are Syrians. The 33-year-old mother, a graduate student in education, said she wasn't excited—"not yet," anyway. She had expected twins.

The Hijabs have one other child, a daughter, Nadia, 3.

The father, 34, who is studying mathematics, said the first thing he did on learning his wife Abla had given birth to quadruplets was to throw away the book on child care used for guidance in rearing Nadia.

"It said nothing about quadruplets," Hijab said.

War Experiences Described

Executives' Club Hears Ex-Counter Spy for U.S.

Foreign spies in the United States are nearly all American citizens, according to Arch F. Coleman, former U. S. secret service man who was guest speaker at a meeting of the Marion Executives' Club last night at the Harding Hotel.

Speaking on "What Our Undercover Men Uncover for us" he related many of his experiences before and during World War II while a member of the war-time Office of Strategic Services.

He told how he was called into the Naval Intelligence Office late in 1940 and, because of his previous experience in Mexico, was asked to go back to Mexico to do counter-intelligence work.

One of Original Members

It was in this way that he became one of the 15 original members of OSS, the secret service organization which by 1945 had 13,000 members, he said. Before 1941, the United States had no peace-time spy organization, he added.

In a matter of some four years we started from scratch and built up a spy system which was almost identical to the Russian spy system, he said.

During the war he went to Turkey under a false name posing as a war correspondent. Working out of Instanbul he contacted German nationals and through them gained much information on German war plans.

Collected Information

Noting that all spy systems seem to work from this basic plan, he explained that if we were able to get German nationals to reveal information to us, then we must expect that Americans are serving as Russian spies in the U. S.

He added that while he was in

ARCH F. COLEMAN
Executives' Club Speaker

charge of a 75-member spy ring in Turkey for some two years, he did little spying himself other than collecting information from other members and transmitting it to allied headquarters.

Asked at the end of his talk his opinion of the Harry Dexter White case, Coleman replied he is fully convinced White was a spy for Russia.

Prior to Coleman's talk, Dr. Floyd Yeager, president of the club, announced names of club officers for the coming year. The new officers were elected at a board of directors meeting held Monday, Dr. Yeager said.

President of the club for 1954 will be Harley Roby; first vice president, Henry Mickley; second vice president, Robert Cripps; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Virginia Greenwood.

Balmy Weather May End Soon as Storms Hit West

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather hit wide areas in the Rocky Mountains and Plains States today but November's spell of spring-like weather continued over most of the eastern third of the nation.

Much of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana was snowed under with nearly a foot of snow in some sections. Rain and snow pelted eastern Utah and western Kansas. Snow fell in western Nebraska while heavy rain hit areas in Texas and Oklahoma. Today the storm centered on northeastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Temperatures dropped below freezing over much of the snow-covered area with readings near zero in some parts of Montana.

Traffic was curtailed because of icy streets and highways. Most mountain roads were reported open but hazardous.

The cool Canadian and Pacific air had advanced eastward today to a line extending southwestward from western Lake Superior through Iowa to western Texas.

A 16-year-old Morrow County youth was seriously injured yesterday evening when he was struck by a passing car while walking along Route 30-S just east of Iberia, the Marion station of the state highway patrol reported this morning.

Injured was Rex Ulmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Finley, of near Galion. According to the patrol he suffered a possible fractured skull, a fracture of the right pelvis, severe lacerations of the scalp, concussion and shock.

He was taken by ambulance to the Galion City Hospital where his condition was reported as "fair" this morning.

Ulmer was walking west when he was struck by a west-bound car driven by Richard Baber, 33, of Galion. There was minor damage to the Baber car.

The patrol is still investigating the accident.

Both Knowland and Dulles urged Japan to furnish more of its defense forces and to lean less heavily on the United States.

Nixon spoke from notes. It was the strongest speech of his goodwill tour through the Orient. Pleased Japanese said it was the first top-level admission that anything was wrong with the U.S. occupation of Japan.

Nixon stressed:

"Japan is a key bastion for the defense of Asia.

"If Japan falls, all of Asia falls.

"Likewise, if Asia falls, Japan falls too."

The vice president and his party leave Friday for a two-hour glimpse of the multi-billion dollar American defense establishment on Okinawa on the way to Manila.

administration to turn back the clock, nor to recall the old days when American labor was cowed, exploited, and unorganized."

Labor problems, he said, are "too big, too important and affect too many people to be treated as a political football." Nor will the administration permit them, he said, to "be carried into the White House by the back stairs, as was the case too often in the past."

Wage Law Revision

In addition to Taft-Hartley amendments, he said, the administration will work for revision of the federal minimum wage law. It will strive to broaden the coverage, which now applies to only one third of America's 63 million workers, he said. And it also will seek to boost the minimum above the present 75 cents an hour. He did not say how much above. The CIO is demanding a $1.25 hourly floor.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) headed today's speaker list.

He said the people "look to President Eisenhower for leadership, but they'll have to look behind him to find it—and they won't like what they find."

"The heart of humanity is being ripped from government and replaced by worship of the almigty dollar," he said in a speech prepared for delivery.

He likened the Eisenhower administration to a football team.

"Ike's the captain, but he's not the quarterback calling the signals," he said. "Sometimes it looks like their deception is too good—they even confuse each other."

"They're making yardage for themselves," he added, but "as far as the public interest is concerned . . . they are headed for the wrong goal."

A cash register was stolen from Scheck's Market, just east of town on Route 30-N, but it was found unopened by Pennsylvania Railroad workers 300 feet east of the crossing in Mononcue early Wednesday morning. Entrance to the market was gained by breaking a window, police said.

The other break-in was at Rieser's Super Market on S. Seventh St. Entrance was gained by using a brick to break a window in the front door. An attempt was made to open the drawer of the cash register, but when this failed, the thieves left empty-handed.

Strike Action Grows Bitter At Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus police last night reported a new short but violent scuffle between union men striking against North American Aviation, Inc., and laborers going to work at the Columbus jet plane plant.

The outbreak came shortly after company lawyers filed applications asking common pleas court to cite Local 927, CIO—United Auto Workers, for contempt on charges growing out of flare-ups Tuesday and yesterday.

Robert V. Catlano, 35, a non-striker, told police he found a bullet hole in the door of his car when he entered it in front of his Columbus home.

Another non-striker, Melvin Maybin, 30, of Columbus, said pickets stopped his car, ripped a mirror and chrome strip from it and battered in a fender.

Traffic near the plant was jammed shortly after the afternoon shift change, police said, while men police identified as union members heaved rocks and damaged non-strikers' cars.

The company asked common pleas court for additional contempt citations against the union for the Tuesday violence which slightly injured nine persons. It also charged union Steward David Mooney of Baltimore, Ohio, with leading a group of union men in overturning a car driven by Wilbur Sturms, a non-striker from Lancaster.

Judge Joseph M. Harter has fined the union $20,000 for violating a restraining order he issued Oct. 23.

Ohio Man Is Held For Moonshining, Brother Released

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One man accused of operating a moonshine still in the Hocking hills was in jail today in default of a $1,000 bond, but his brother has been released.

James Baker, 32, and his brother, Kenneth Paul Baker, 41, were arrested Tuesday south of the community of South Perry, Hocking County. The arrests were made at James Baker's home.

Brought before U. S. Commissioner Robert Newlon, James Baker was bound over to the federal grand jury and was held in the Columbus jail in default of bond.

Kenneth Paul Baker was released, Newlon said, because there was no evidence he had knowledge of the operation of the still which had a 35-gallon-a-day capacity. The still was confiscated.

Newlon said James Baker told him his older brother was on his property to do some cement work. James Baker said his brother had no connection with the illegal operation.

Greenlease

been found in the stubble wheat field in Johnson County (Kansas) gave substance to the possibility that she was doing more than simply going after her dog when Hall was shooting Bobby to death.

"Reprehensible as is the crime of kidnaping," Judge Reeves told the jury, "they still did commit cold-blooded, heartless, cruel first degree murder.

"In studying this testimony I fail to find one line of justifying or mitigating circumstances for this crime.

Any Crime More Horrifying?

"Is it conceivable that the Congress could, in enacting the Lindbergh law, have conceived of a more merciless, more horrifying crime than was committed?"

Judge Reeves, under the law, is not bound to follow the jury's recommendation but his serious charge left little doubt in the minds of spectators in the crowded courtroom that should the jury recommend the death sentence he would impose it.

When the jury returns with its vedict, Judge Reeves said he would confer with the attorneys before imposing sentence. If the lawyers want a day or two for post-trial motions, he said, he will agree.

In case the jury is unable to reach a unanimous decision, the judge then must assess the penalty but the maximum he could give in that case would be life imprisonment.

Hung Jury Not Mistrial

A hung jury would not mean a mistrial, U. S. Dist. Atty. Edward L. Scheufler said.

Mrs. Heady, dressed neatly in the same brown outfit she wore on the second day of the trial, followed the judge's words closely. She kept watching him as the gray-haired jurist spoke with directness and clarity to the jury.

After the jury had been out 15 minutes, there were no signs of activity on the fifth floor of the federal building where they are deliberating the case.

Newsmen Banned

Newsmen were bannd from that part of the building.

Little Bobby's multi-millionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease; his grown adopted son, Paul; and two of his close business associates, Robert Ledterman of Tulsa, Okla., and Norbert O'Neill, Kansas City, sat inside the court railings as the jury was given its instructions.

Ledterman and O'Neill were intermediaries for the family in negotiating the $600,000 ransome paid in a futile effort to get the boy back.

Scheufler wound up the government's plea for a death penalty recommendation yesterday by saying:

"If there was ever a case of a jury of free-born American citizens sitting in judgment where the life of one of their fellow men is at stake where the jury would be justified in taking a life, this is it."

In his summation Scheufler's voice rose as he termed the 41-year-old Mrs. Heady equally guilty with Hall.

Hall Pleads for Mistress

Only a short time before Hall, who had sat downcast all day in the courtroom, had attempted to save the life of his mistress by taking full responsibility for the planning of the kidnap-slaying.

His move came as the defense ended its short parade of witnesses. Hall did not take the stand. Through his court-appointed attorney, Roy Dietrich of Kansas City, he advised the jury he wanted to assume full responsibility for the planning of the crime.

But Scheufler declared Mrs. Heady was as much mixed up in the crime as Hall despite his admission he had been planning a kidnaping for two years.

Scheufler said she had every opportunity in the weeks of planning the kidnap-slaying to intercede for Bobby's life by saying:

"No, Carl, let us not do this; let us not plan the death of a child like this."

"She had a chance fifty times, one hundred times, a thousand times to stop this thing and clear up to the time they were in the stubble-field in Johnson County (Kansas) where Bobby was to die she could have said no. But she did not," the district attorney declared.

Reviews Testimony

Scheufler reviewed the testimony of how the day before the kidnaping they went over plans together for killing the boy. He said they even had bought paper and envelopes beforehand and prepared the ransom notes, demanding $600,000.

"They even talked of the dastardly cold-blooded plan of burying the child near the Greenlease home in Johnson County," he said. "With the body in the back of the station wagon, they stopped in north Kansas City (on the way to St. Joseph to bury the boy) to have some drinks."

The district attorney charged Mrs. Heady with "sacrilegious invasion of one of our most sacred institutions" when she went to pray at the chapel of the Catholic school where she gained possession of the boy by telling a nun she was his aunt and she had come to take him to his ill mother.

Mrs. Heady, dressed in a neat gray suit and wearing a little black hat, at times smirked but for the most part she just listened. Like Hall, she did not take the stand.

Have Little To Say

Both Dietrich and Mrs. Heady's attorney, Harold Hull of Maryville, Mo., appeared almost apologetic in their closing arguments defending the couple.

Speaking of Mrs. Heady, Hull said, "I openly say she should be punished," but he pleaded for her life by claiming she was "putty" in the hands of Hall. Hull said he did not believe in capital punishment.

He pointed out that his one witness for Mrs. Heady—her elderly aunt—had testified that for 40 years Mrs. Heady had led a normal life. The aunt, Mrs. Nellie Baker of Chicago, reared Mrs. Heady, whose mother died when the defendant was 2 years old.

Hull spoke of excessive drinking by Mrs. Heady. Something happened to her, he said. He added she had wanted no defense; that she stood ready to pay the price for her crime and had not even wanted him to put the aunt on the stand.

Hope for Missing Baby Sitter About Gone After 4 Weeks

LACROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Almost four weeks have passed since the disappearance of pretty young Evelyn Hartley and with them have gone nearly all hope that the puzzle will be solved.

Police still follow through on the slimmest of possible leads but there is nothing resembling a break in the mystery.

There is little doubt that Evelyn, 15-year-old daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Richard Hartley, forcibly was abducted the night of Oct. 4 from the Viggo Rasmusen home, where she was baby sitting. Her coat, glasses and shoes were left behind and there were bloodstains around an open basement window, the lawn and a nearby home in the sparsely settled section of town.

And her continued absence is interpreted, even by her parents, as having no other possible meaning than she is dead.

Water Supply Critical At Olentangy School

Special to The Star

DELAWARE — Extra-curricular activities and evening programs at Olentangy High School in Orange Township, Delaware County, have been cancelled because of the current water shortage.

The Pumpkin Ball, which was to have been sponsored Saturday night by the Band Parents Association to raise money for the purchase of uniforms, has been cancelled. Other night programs have been called off with the exception of the first basketball game, Nov. 24, when Olentangy and Plain City will be at Olentangy.

The water shortage became apparent last week when the water level in the 50-foot well, where the school obtains its water supply, became so low that there was no pressure in the building. The well was drilled six months before the construction of the new school building was started.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

SOKOLSKY

I have been writing for so many years about the men who betrayed America, including Harry Dexter White, that the current furor surprises me only because it comes so late.

To separate Harry Dexter White as a special case is to misunderstand the frightful decisions of obscure men which controlled the course of our history since 1934. White was one of a large group that originated in the Harold Ware cells in 1934.

To emphasize White and to omit, in any analysis of the course of events, John Abt, Nathan Witt, Victor Perlo, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, Lauchlin Currie, Harold Glasser, Charles Kramer, George Silverman, Michael Lee, Solomon Adler, Henry Collins, Jr., Frank Coe, Michael Greenberg, and dozens of others whose names and records are known, is to miss the whole story.

HARRY DEXTER WHITE was not a top man in the great conspiracy to infiltrate the government.

Because of his extraordinary ability, he rose to a high position in the United States Treasury. He was an abler man than the secretaries of the treasury under whom he served, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Fred Vinson and John Snyder, and therefore, as an expert, played so important a part in the fiscal affairs of this country.

He was only a secondary personality and a tool inside the conspiratorial group.

-:-

ON MARCH 29, 1937, in commenting on the Russian revolution and the effort in the years preceding 1937 of the Harold Ware cells to win the victories of revolution by infiltration, I wrote:

"Revolutions are successful when an organized minority discovers that the majority is split, is confused, is without vigilance.

"Then it is revolutionary tactics to confound and confuse the majority by side issues, by speeches on humane subjects, by beating the drum of progress and liberalism.

"Almost like vaudevillians repeating the jokes of a decade and a century ago, the revolutionists and the compromisers repeat the slogans and adages of all the centuries and of all countries. They play upon distress; they create emergencies; they ridicule fundamentals.

"And all sorts of people are taken in by these tricks and they bow to the golden calf of humane proposals. Only too late do they learn that this emphatic humanity is only a veneer, only a sham in the rise to power.

"The minority stand upon the shoulders of those wom they fool only as long as they need protection. When they want to come to earth, they destroy the props that supported them.

[illegible]

"The American people do not yet realize that they are in the first stage of a revolution. . ."

-:-

IT WILL BE recalled that William A. Wirt, an educator of Gary, Indiana, exploded after a party in which the plans to make Roosevelt "the Kerensky" of the American revolution were discussed. This was in 1934. Wirt was ridiculed and literally hounded to death.

It can be said without possibility of error that if an honest investigation of Wirt's data had been made at the time, neither Alger Hiss nor Harry Dexter White could have become so important in our affairs.

No matter what Harry Truman says about his personal attitude toward Harry Dexter White, the effort of a small minority to take over America did not altogether fail.

THE CURRENT hysterical efforts, for instance, to cover up the Fort Monmouth case, the undercover negotiations to avert public hearings, the confusing, contradictory statements by Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. Joe McCarthy are of the same cloth as the cover up of Alger Hiss, of Harry Dexter White, of Lauchlin Currie, of many others.

The fact that the hearings concerning General Richard C. Partridge and Samuel McKee, Jr., one the head of G-2, United States Army, and the other the civilian consultant to the assistant chief of staff, G-2, have remained "confidential," despite the fact that Gen. Partridge was removed from his post shortly after the Executive Session Hearings of the McCarthy Committee, serves neither Gen. Partridge, the Army, nor the United States.

PARTRIDGE and McKee are entitled to a public hearing to safeguard their reputations from rumor and hearsay. This is another example of an unnecessary and inadvisable cover up which can serve only to hide Communist infiltration.

Harry Dexter White and his group were able to commit offenses against the United States. White is dead. Most of the others in the group are alive and they are available for testimony. Why not deal with the live ones?

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

CLEVELAND

Walter Reuther is taking the criticism of Harry Truman as a personal insult and is pitching some of his own barbs at the expresident's opponents in the White case — not the least of which is Reuther's charge that South Carolina's Governor James Byrnes is a symbol of Nazism.

RIESEL

Swinging his full weight as CIO president, Reuther told the 700 top CIO officers here at their 15th Constitutional Convention that Byrnes is a "symbol of the master race theory which we fought on the streets of Berlin, a symbol of bigotry, intolerance and immorality."

This bitter anger with those who have charged Harry Truman with softness on Communism was reflected in the CIO's vehement attack on all the congressional investigatory committees.

THIS ATTACK, interwoven with heated blasts against big business in general and General Motors in particular, characterized Senators McCarthy and Jenner and Representative Velde as the "evil men in Washington today" for daring "to attack Harry Truman as soft on Communism"

Officially the CIO charged that the techniques of these committees may be more disastrous to the country than anything that the small and diminishing Communist party has even been able to devise."

Reuther promised to drive these Republican Congressmen from office.

This "situation can be remedied by political action," Reuther warned, using the sharpest phrases yet hurled at the administration by any national labor chief.

-:-

REFERRING to the Eisenhower administration, the red-haired chief of CIO charged that it was "turning the New Deal into the big steal."

"We're going to keep score for 1954, and we're going to even the score at that time," he said.

Though the delegates to the convention cheered Reuther's unprecedentedly searing attacks on the President and his appointees, the CIO was far from unanimous in its animus against big business and the administration.

Even as Reuther opened his first full convention as CIO president, most eyes were on a pocked-faced, silver-haired man sitting in a self-made island of silence on the platform.

That man was the powerful CIO Steelworkers Union leader, David McDonald, who makes no secret of his disdain for Reuther's ultra-militant policies and talks.

-:-

McDONALD and his million-member Steelworkers lead almost half of CIO—and this bloc, though critical of the Republicans, by no means wants to bait big business (as witness the CIO Steelworkers-U.S. Steel Corp. cooperation) or to boycott President Eisenhower.

For example, the mere presence of McDonald at a closed session of the CIO high command here this past week saved President Eisenhower from a deliberate slap by CIO which literally would have been heard round the world.

The CIO leaders were discussing guest speakers scheduled for the convention.

They had before them a communication from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, whom they had invited long before the spy case which will become somebody's political white elephant. At that time Dulles had written to say he could not come because of pressure of NATO business.

LAST WEEK, however, the CIO chiefs were informed that Eisenhower's secretary of state could speak on Wednesday of the convention week.

When the outspoken CIO Sailors' Union leader, big Joe Curran, heard this, he urged the CIO chiefs to reject Dulles publicly—to tell him not to come, because there simply was not time for him and because the CIO just did not want to give any White House spokesman a platform after the attack on Truman.

Curran got little support.

Most of the other CIO leaders awaited some sign from David McDonald. The Steelworkers chief maintained the same frozen silence with which he has treated most of the current CIO proceedings here under Walter Reuther.

-:-

SINCE TENSION was great and no one knew just what McDonald's plans were, no one wanted to stir a fight which might split CIO wide open. Dulles was not rejected.

At the same time McDonald went on with his plans for joint press conferences with the head of U.S. Steel, the type of industrialist Reuther keeps blasting. And McDonald arranged to leave the convention for meetings of Eisenhower's special Tariff Commission headed by Inland Steel's Clarence Randall.

Thus the real drama of the CIO parley was being played far from the convention state.

Fan Mail

By Laura Hobson

"Fan letters not to send to authors" is a minor topic I have major emotions about, and the mail on this otherwise attractive morning brought in an example that's a honey.

HOBSON

A 30,000 word novelette of mine appeared last month in "Good Housekeeping" and whether it was good or bad, present deponent sayeth not. But out in California one reader, at least, thought it was great, sat herself down to say so, and achieved a first paragraph of purple praise.

-:-

THEN CAME paragraph two, which began, "I hope you won't think I'm carping over details, but—"

There followed carp after carp, such as, "You said she quit her job the day after Christmas, a Thursday, and four days later got a new job. With the five-day week, she couldn't have been interviewed Saturday or Sunday, so wasn't it six days later she got the newer one?"

Ten similar queries followed. Why had I not told more about the Christmas celebration of my characters? Wouldn't little Nancy have made awkward little gifts with her scissors and crayons? Didn't British-born old Annie even make a plum pudding? Would Jim go off without leaving a small present? Et cetera.

-:-

HOW DOES an author answer a letter like that, I ask you? If you throw it in the basket, your reader decides you're stuck-up; if you write a two-line note saying you're glad she liked the story on most counts, back comes a second letter saying, "Those points I raised really stumped you, didn't they?" If you obey your first impulse and say, "Dear Mr. - - - -, my dictionary defines 'carp' as 'to cavil, to complain unreasonably,' which is what I think you've done. Yours sincerely," you might hate yourself in the morning.

My all-time example of fan letters not to write, however, still remains the one I got from a gentleman in Hartford, Conn., about another story.

ALSO STARTING with a passion of praise, it then said, "But you said Bill caught the 3:48 to Hartford from New York. The time of the story was the year the war ended. I sent to the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad Company for their 1945 timetables. There was no 3:48 in 1945. It was the 3:44 Bill must have taken."

These are "fan letters," remember. The other kind, that inform you you can't write or that it's disgusting to show characters who light cigarettes and take a martini before dinner—these are not "fan mail" and I assure you I've had plenty of practice about handling them.

Like most authors, I deeply appreciate thoughtful criticism from readers, and I answer it as carefully as I can—no matter how long it takes.

But the plum pudding type and the 3:48 type? I could have written my Hartford "fan" and pointed out that my story carried through far into 1946, and invited him to check the 1946 timetable, as I had.

To my California "admirer" I might have replied crisply that my British-born Annie was allergic to plums.

I didn't do either. I just took more time away from my children and my daily work and my friends and my hours of rest and wrote the soft - headed equivalent of, "Gosh, thanks for being such an attentive reader."

Then I really did hate myself in the morning.

Ohio Supreme Court Refuses Review of Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday refused to review an appeals court decision sending a damage suit against the state industrial commission back to a common pleas court.

The suit was brought by Jesse Miller for state insurance fund benefits. His father, Tie P. Miller, was killed in an explosion at a Powhatan Mining Co. pit in Jefferson County.

The commission denied the claim and common pleas court upheld the commission. An appeals court reversed only to have its reversal voided by the Supreme Court on grounds the appellate court could not substitute its judgment for that of the trial court. Back to the appeals court went the case.

After hearing arguments in the case as ordered by the high court, the appeals court again reversed the trial court decision. A commission counsel, trying to get the Supreme Court to duplicate its earlier action, contended the appeals court abused its discretion. This time, the high court let it stand.

It also refused to review another Jefferson County appeals court decision. That one involved the question of whether a privately-owned Army half track needs a motor vehicle license to operate on state highways.

A justice of the peace convicted Otis Yoho on charges of operating without a license on Ohio 152. A common pleas court upheld the justice. An appeals court, however, said the vehicle was exempt from licensing laws.

Ohio Hunter Bags Bear But Will Cost Him $600

HOUGHTON LAKE, Mich. (AP) — For five years R. C. Mulholland of Dayton, Ohio, had gone to the Michigan woods hoping to shoot a bear. Each year he returned empty-handed.

Yesterday, driving along Route 27, he hit something that spun his car around. There, on the road, was a wounded bear. Grabbing his rifle, Mulholland killed it with one shot.

He has his bear, but it will cost him $600—for repairs to the car.

Car Had Reason To Heat Up, Radiator Was Gone

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Storey was driving to work when his new car began to heat up.

He pulled into a filling station and asked the attendant to see what was wrong. The man raised the hood.

"There isn't anything wrong," he said, "except that you need a radiator."

Someone had swiped the radiator during the night and relocked the hood.

Baltimore Bandit Works Hard To Set Up Holdup

BALTIMORE (AP) — A customer with plenty of time to spare spent an hour in Samuel Singer's Army and Navy store yesterday outfitting himself with shoes, trousers and sundry other items.

As Singer added up the bill, the customer pulled a gun, tied Singer up with some leather shoelaces among the "purchases," and cleaned out the cash register and the proprietor's wallet.

He made off with $131 in cash but left the pile of clothing behind.

Fire Warden Reports Arson

7 Blazes in Southern Ohio Deliberately Set

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—Forest Fire Warden John Waters at nearby Rt. 1, Wellston, says seven fires set at half-mile intervals along Ohio 327 Nov. 17 definitely were set by arsonists.

Most of the fires were brought under control quickly, but one burned 44 acres of land and took five hours to control.

John A. Bastian, Ohio's chief forest fire warden, says state foresters used an airplane in an effort to head off the Rt. 327 arsonist while State Highway Patrolmen searched along the highway. He said a string of a dozen fires were set altogether along the state highway.

Bastian said the fires could have been started by lighted matches tossed from a passing automobile into the tinder-dry woods along the route.

'Home' Between Jobs

Galion Decorator Names Ways To Beautify Room

Special to The Star

GALION —"The key to a lovely room is the achievement of color harmony, with the combination of all fabrics, furniture, and accessories, having a perfect affinity for each other," advises Margaret Boyer .

She is a nationally recognized interior decorator whose ideas have been featured in Better Homes and Gardens. For several months now, she has been back "home" in Galion.

Mrs. Boyer who is a native of Galion, returned here in the summer for several reasons. Probably the most important one was the health of her 10-year-old daughter, Diane, and the other was for a rest before going on to several major decorating jobs. Meanwhile she is waiting to do a large home in Hatzloc, British Columbia, Canada, several homes in Toledo, and one for the man who is establishing the first TV station in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.

A graduate of the New York School of Decorating, Mrs. Boyer has applied her talents and training for various stores in Washington, D. C., Florida, Tennessee, Arizona, and Columbus. While in Washington she had the experience of decorating embassies, homes of statesmen and office buildings.

"COLOR CAN COMPLETELY change a person's mental state and happiness," Mrs. Boyer advocates. She has been recognized particularly for her ability to combine colors, and often has discovered new combinations such as olive green and powder blue which have been adopted by leading manufacturers. Soft, muted colors are her favorites, and she points out that she recommends carrying the colors in the floor covering into the draperies, furniture and other objects of the room.

"Wherever possible, I like to bring out the person's personality or hobby in the room I am decorating," Mrs. Boyer explains. One example of this was in Nashville, Tenn., where she decorated the den, among other rooms, in the home of Red Foley. He is the star of "Grand Ole Ogry," carried over the NBC radio network. Foley's recording of "Chattanooga Shoeshine Boy" outsold Bing Crosby's. In appreciation of this, Foley was given a gold-plated casting of his record. Mrs. Boyer had the record glued to the center of the goldtinted ceiling of his den. The remainder of the ceiling design was other recordings placed in the center of oversized polka dots. The drapes, with white background, were printed with musical notes. Almost every musical instrument made was used in the murals of the room.

The key to Mrs. Boyer's success seems to be her vivid imagination. Once she said, "Every house I do, is different, and the ideas come out of my head." In many homes she has used furniture of her own design, (not yet on the market). The landscape, climate, and even vegetation of the environment where she is working has something to do with these ideas. This was particularly true in the home of Emerson Wolff, built on an island off of Miami Beach, Fla., where eevrything had to be taken over to the home by boat. Mrs. Boyer, in decorating this home, carried out a tropical theme. A solarium was located in the center of the home, with all picture windows of the wings looking out to the solarium. A large palm tree in the center extended through the ceiling of the solarium, and spotlights at night were used effectively to pick out different tropical plants.

MRS. BOYER NOT ONLY decorated, but designed the James Deriso home in Miami. The plan was drawn up around the activities of three college-girl daughter of the family. Deriso is vice president of the Margaret Ann Groceries throughout Florida. Between Miami and Miami Shores, the Little River Youth Center (largest youth center in the world) was decorated by Mrs. Boyer. In Miami, Mrs. Boyer was employed for Woodrum's.

Readers of the June issue of Better Homes and Gardens magazine will remember the feature for that month, 'High Style at Low Cost," with pictures and article about a winter home built for Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Beckwith of Toledo, in Paradise Valley at the foot of Camelback Mountain near Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Boyer had complete charge of the decorating.

Many times while in Phoenix, Mrs. Boyer worked with Frank Lloyd Wright, world-famous architect, and with Hiram Hudson Benedict, another renowned architect The latter built the home of Mildred Meredith Bohen and her husband, Fred Bohen. Mrs. Bohen is co-owner of Better Homes and Gardens, and Mrs. Boyer was asked with several other decorators and firms to assist Mrs. Bohen in decorating this home.

With the architect, Mrs. Boyer was color consultant in the home of Alice Faye and Phil Harris at Palm Springs, Calif. Her work has included dormitories in colleges, hospitals, and many restaurants that have received nation-wide publicity for ther individuality.

Mrs. Boyer is the former Margaret Opal Smith of Galion. She was graduated from Galion High School.

FORMER MARIONITE NAMED

GALION — Ralph Workman, for the past two and a half years personnel director at Perfection Steel Body Co., has been appointed representative of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States with unlimited territory. The appointment was announced Wednesday by C. Neil Starr of Mansfield, district manger. Before coming to Galion, Workman was personnel director at the Marion Power Shovel Co., Marion, for five years. He is a graduate of Ohio State University, and the Harvard School of Business Administration.

Press Conference Misleading

Ike Not Out of Step on Election Issues

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, who calls himself a political novice, isn't necessarily in conflict with his party's pros over communism as a 1954 election issue.

At first glance he might seem to be riding off in an opposite direction from two of the Republican party's highest-ranking political generals, Leonard W. Hall, and Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Hall, Republican national chairman and therefore a guiding spirit in the Republicans' efforts to win next year's congressional elections said last Sunday:

"Communism is going to be one of the main issues" in the election. He added: "We'll see to it that all Communists and left-wingers who came into the government under the former administrations are going to be put out."

Two days later Brownell, a real political pro after managing the presidential campaigns of Eisenhower and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, gave Congress a nudge, practically a push, to dig into the Communist issue.

When he testified Tuesday about Harry Dexter White before the the Senate's subcommittee on internal security, he had a prepared statement. So he wasn't talking at random when he told the senators:

"This subcommittee, I am sure, will want to examine with great care the claim that there was a plan to keep White and others in the espionage ring in government employment in the hope of catching them."

And then he said:

"You will also want to investigate, I believe, what care was used to protect the national security. These are grave questions to which the public is entitled to complete answers."

The kind of investigation urged by Brownell could go on for months, right up to election time.

The subcommittee yesterday began digging into the case of one of the people mentioned, along with White, by the FBI in its report to the White House in 1945 on Soviet spy suspects.

This was Harold Glasser, who was later promoted by former Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder, an old-time friend of Truman.

Since the kind of investigation Brownell mentioned involves alleged Communists and spies in the Truman administration, he and Hall were talkng about the same kind of Communist problem.

Then at his news conference yesterday Eisenhower was reminded of Hall's Sunday statement and was asked:

Did he think exposure of Communist infiltration in the government under previous administrations would be the Republicans' No. 1 campaign issue next year?

After some preliminary statements, the President expressed hope that this whole thing will be a matter of history and of memory by the time the next election comes around.

Then he was asked if this meant he hoped the congressional committees now investigating the Communist - in - government issue would have finished their work by election time. He said he hoped by election time the people would have no worry that any Communists were left in the government.

Since he didn't say specifically he didn't object to Communists-in-government-under-Truman as an issue, it could be interpreted as meaning only that he didn't want Communists-in-government-under-Eisenhower as an issue. If so, then there's no conflict with Brownell and Hall.

Rep. Bolton Finds Russians Eager To Learn English

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs Frances P. Bolton, Republican representative from Ohio since 1940 and for two months a delegate to the United Nations General Assembly, walked over to the White Russian delegate in the U. N. Trusteeship Committee and handed him a book.

Instantly the Russian was surrounded by chattering comrades who wanted to see what this representative of the "imperialist" and "capitalist" country had given their pal.

It was a book on how to learn English quickly and easily.

Soon the entire delegation was reading it closely. Now, Mrs. Bolton said today, they are speaking a little English and show signs of learning more.

That simple act in a U. N. committee room was part of Mrs. Bolton's private program for handling the Russians.

She told a reporter that she had given out one or two more English books since then and had found them deeply appreciated. One delegate who used to meet her with a sour expression now has unbent and is able to say good morning without a frown.

"They are thrilled with the books," she said. "They are trying to learn English. We should expose them to the normal, natural living in this country—maybe more of them might come over to our side."

Classifies Major Thoroughfares

Deciding Where To Spend $90 Million Is Task of Highway Building Council

By WILLIAM K. TERRY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Every state highway used by more than 200 heavy trucks a day for more than a limited mileage is included in the 6,200-mile major thoroughfare system of Ohio.

The new state Highway Construction Council Monday classified state highways. It had to do that because it can spend money only on those roads it regards as major thoroughfares.

At the same time, it placed 8,100 miles of roads in the auxiliary state highway system, the next lower classification, and 4,100 miles of roads in the local state highway system, used mainly for travel between nearby towns.

"The determination of major thoroughfares is not at this stage an exact science," the council's report notes. "It has to do with judgement and approximations. Traffic counts and origin and destination studies are comparatively new developments although they do serve to give the state picture in a pretty comprehensive manner. Sufficiency ratings to show relative adequacy of highways are worked out on various bases and have not been developed to a full scientific level."

So in classifying highways the council not only considered present traffic but tried to predict what traffic would be like in the future.

"In relation to routes in southern and southeastern Ohio the council noted that there are signs of rising industrial development in this area," the report noted. This is in addition to the atomic plant now a building in Pike County.

Traffic along Ohio 7 from Marietta north to Steubenville is low, but it is the Ohio River highway on the Ohio side. The report said there are definite indcation of rising industrial potential along the [illegible] industrial potential along the route between those cities and that traffic near those cities already is high.

Here are the factors the council considered when classifying the state highways:

Total traffic, heavy truck traffic, whether the highway was adequate according to highway department reports, whether the highway was a link connecting important highways or parts of highways, whether there was an alternative route, national need for the highway, and development in the area.

The council came up with a tentative classification of 5,977 miles of major thoroughfares early in November, and conducted a public hearing on its system.

Both those who thought the major thoroughfare system should be longer and those who thought it was too long testified. The council then added more than 200 miles.

"Following the hearing, a section of Ohio 7 from U.S. 62 to Ohio [illegible] of Ohio 1 from U.S. 42 to Ohio 62, and of urban Ohio 2 in Toledo, inadvertently omitted, were included," the report said.

Also added were Ohio 13 from New Lexington to U.S. 33 at Chauncey, Ohio 7 from alternate U.S. 50 to the Bellaire bridge over the Ohio River, Ohio 164 from U.S 62 to U.S. 224, and U.S. 224 from [illegible] to U.S. 224, and U.S. 224 from Ottawa to the Indiana border.

The report noted the state highway department next year will have available for new construction from other than council funds 10 million dollars, exclusive of local or federal matching money.

"Besides the highway construction funds," the report goes on, [illegible] the report goes on "Ohio highways require large maintenance outlays. In general, highway engineers stated, maintenance funds can be relied upon to bring or keep highways with low traffic to an acceptable level of sufficiency."

That's how the council set up its major thoroughfare system of roads that link all 88 Ohio counties and reach 84 county seats. Some 66 county seats have two or more major highways.

Vocal Program Given At Sycamore Meeting

SYCAMORE — The Thanksgiving program given by the Sycamore Choral Club last week at the home of Miss Corabelle Kaufman consisted of vocal selections. Mrs. F. M. Smith was co-hostess.

Those taking part were Mrs. Blanche Shane, Mrs. Blanche Ames, Pauline Walton, Florence Brown, Delight DeWalt, Helen Powell, Mary Jo Turk, Viola Snavely and Thelma Walter.

It was decided to dispense with the Christmas gift exchange among the members. Each will contribute to the Christmas fund for the Salvation Army to be sent to Captain Dorothy Smith in New York City.

The program for the next meeting will be in charge of the husbands of the members, and a pot-luck supper will be a feature.

Freak Tornado

EL RENO, Okla. (AP)—An out-of-season tornado dipped briefly into a rural area two miles east of here last night, exploded a garage and scattered the debris across busy U. S. highway 66, knocking down telephone lines. There were no other reports of damage or injuries.

The fall migrations of eagles and egrets may take them north instead of south until winter turns them back.

Poll at Antioch Reveals Active Life Preferred

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—Would you like a life of simple enjoyment of people, friends, food, job?

If you do, then you're different from the majority of American college students today, says Dr. Charles Morris, professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago.

A sizable chunk of America's college students, says the professor, want a life compounded of equal parts of enjoyment, action and contemplation.

He based his figures on results of a nationwide survey of 2,500 college students carried on over a period of 10 years. He reported on them during a conference on "Values of Higher Education" currecently under way on the Antioch College campus.

In the first place, with 37 per cent of those polled, were the students wanting a life of enjoyment, action and contemplation "This characteristic American young person's attitude toward the ideal way of life is a dynamic integration of enjoyment, action, contemplation," Dr. Morris said. "They tend to stress a rich and complex life, with subordinate stress of social responsibility and participation."

Number two choice of a way of life is a conservative one, "preservation of the best that man has attained, a respect for traditions and heritage." In third place is a pilosophy "that stresses the constant reconstruction of self in society, wherein many controls himself and his environment," Morris explained.

The simple life of enjoyment of people, etc., the choice of nine per cent of students polled, was in fourth place.

Slot Machine Case Presented to Jury

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—A jury of nine women and three men is expected to decide today whether Dustin E. (Ducky) Corn is guilty of owning and possessing slot machines.

If found guilty, Corn, former Ironton councilman and once mayor of nearby Hanging Rock, can get a 1-5 year jail term and a $5,000 fine.

In trouble with the law previously because of his night club operations, Corn was tried on the slot charges early this year. The jury deadlocked.

The charges stem from a raid in Ironton last January netting 155 slot machine shells. Corn's lawyer contended the shells are not gambling devices in themselves.

Farm experts say corn is 25 per cent more nutritious when turned into silage than when fed to animals as grain and fodder.

Vary Your Thanksgiving Day Dinner

Begin Meal With Cheese And Pretzels; Pumpkin Tarts for Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

"My family insists on a traditional main course for Thanksgiving dinner. But they enjoy starting with something different, and they do like a light dessert. What would you suggest for the beginning and ending?"

So many times we get this request!

Quick as a bunny, we offer our answer. Make the first course a tray of pretzels and a dip. Serve it in the living room with the family's favorite holiday punch. Try our recipe for a simple cream cheese dip and get yourself an assortment of pretzels. Pretzels come in all sizes and shapes these days, from rings to sticks. They'll keep everyone busy munching while you're left in peace and quiet in the kitchen to take that grand and glorious turkey out of the oven and make the gravy.

For dessert, Orange Pumpkin Chiffon Tarts made with evaporated milk instead of rich cream. Traditional in flavor, but airy as a cloud, delicate and delectable.

CREAM CHEESE DUNK

Ingredients: Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, light cream, 3 tablespoons chopped chives, 1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce, salt to taste.

Method: Mash cream cheese with a fork. Blend gradually with enough light cream to make dunking consistency. Beat in chives, Worcestershire and salt.

Note: If chives are not available season the cream cheese mixture with finely grated onion (pulp and juice) and add a little finely chopped parsley.

ORANGE PUMPKIN CHIFFON TARTS

Ingredients: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 3 eggs (separated), 1 cup sugar, 1¼ cups canned solid-pack pumpkin, ¾ cup evaporated milk (undiluted), 2 tablespoons orange juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2½ tablespoons grated orange rind, 6 tart shells (baked in pans about 3-¾ by 1⅛ inches), 6 orange candy slices (if desired).

Method: Soften gelatin in cold water in large mixing bowl. Blend egg yolks with ½ cup of the sugar in top of double boiler; now blend in pumpkin, evaporated milk, orange juice, salt, ginger, nutmeg, cinnamon and orange rind. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly and vigorously, until thickened—about 6 minutes. Remove from heat. Add to gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until they hold a soft peak. Add remaining ½ cup sugar gradually; continue beating until stiff and glossy. Fold into pumpkin mixture lightly but thoroughly. Spoon into baked tart shells. Chill until set — 4 to 5 hours. If orange slices are used, garnish tarts with them at serving time.

CHEESE DUNK AND PRETZELS—Keep them munching while you make the Thanksgiving Day turkey gravy.

ORANGE PUMPKIN CHIFFON TARTS for meal's end.

Review of Union Dispute Is Denied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A union dispute at the Hamilton plant of Clearing Machine Corp. will not be reviewed by the Ohio Supreme Court.

An appeals court reversed the Butler County Common Pleas Court contempt conviction of Andrew B. Cook and Russell P. Sick, financial and recording secretaries of an independent union at the plant.

On June 9, 1952, the union president, Albert C. Jacobs, obtained an injunction prohibiting Cook and Sick from having him fired under a union-company agreement that the company would discharge union members who failed to pay dues.

The trouble arose when the independent union voted to join the CIO—United Auto Workers Union.

Dog Injured by Truck Gets Plenty of Attention

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Millard R. Dement, volunteer fire chief in nearby Clifton, hit a dog with his truck yesterday. He drove the truck into a ditch trying to avoid the animal.

While he was checking the dog's injuries, he heard the fire siren in Clifton. He jumped into his truck and sped into town, passing the village pumper on the way. In town he got an ambulance and started after the pumper.

He found it at the spot where he'd hit the dog. A neighbor, hearing the dog's howls and seeing the truck in the ditch, had called the fire department.

The dog suffered only minor injuries.

Lausche Rejects Cuyahoga County Election Demand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche says it would cost more than it would be worth to call a special election to fill vacancies in the General Assembly.

He responded yesterday to a summons from the Ohio Supreme Court calling on him to answer by Dec. 18 a suit by a Cleveland Republican to require Lausche to order a special election.

Acting for himself and other Ohioans, Richard B. Kay, president of the Greater Cleveland Young Republican Club, brought the suit. Lausche said:

"The estimated minimum cost of the (regular) primary, which would have to be held in Cuyahoga, Hamilton, Lucas, Sandusky, Preble and Mahoning counties, would be $402,300, and that of the special election $402,300, making an aggregate cost of $804,600."

Lausche said if the law requires him to set a special election he will lessen the cost b having it held on the normal primary and election days of 1954.

Kay wants the election before that time. He cited a scheduled session of the Legislature Jan. 11 to deal with highways and said Cuyahoga County is entitled to representation by 17 House members and five senators. The county now has only 15 representatives and four senators and another House vacancy is imminent, he said.

Swim Suit Transparent, California Woman Sues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Everybody looked when pretty Mrs. Patricia C. Muncy of Redondo Beach stepped out of a Santa Monica pool. They looked again. Then Mrs. Muncy looked too.

What she saw, she said in a suit yesterday asking $10,000 damages, was that her bathing suit "became transparent and pervious to light" after contact with water.

She has sued the garment manufacturer, claiming she was exposed to public gaze and ridicule, and suffered extreme embarrassment and shock.

Senator Plans Near East Trip

Gillette To Check on Arab Rehabilitation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he plans an early tour of the Near East to check on prospects for rehabilitating displaced Arabs now supported by United Nations funds.

Gillette will make the tour for a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Near East problems which reported last July 4 that unless the rehabilitation program was stepped up "Congress would not be justified in continuing aid for this program."

That report estimated 860,000 Arab refugees who fled from Palestine during the fighting in 1948 were housed in refugee camps. It added that after five years of effort and the expenditure of more than 100 million dollars, "virtually no progress" had been made toward resettling and rehabilitating the refugees.

Christmas Parties Slated By Crestline Auxiliary

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE — It was voted at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday night to send $10 at Christmas to veterans' hospitals at Sandusky, Toledo, Brecksville, Chillicothe and Dayton. Mrs. Archie Kenn, welfare chairman gave her report and requested milk be sent to a needy family for another month. The request was granted by vote. A donation was voted for a local family with two children hospitalized with polio.

Miss Katherine Mayer, rehabilitation chairman, reported 35 pounds of candy had been sent to Chillicothe Hospital and seven canteen books sent to Circle Hospital. She also reported sending gifts to members who were ill.

Plans for the Legion and auxiliary members' children's Christmas party were discussed. It was decided to have the party Dec. 17 from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Legion home. The President named the following committee to be in charge: Mrs. Albert Hoffman, chairman; Mrs. Ernest Bopp, Mrs. Archie Keirn, Mrs. John Swarve, Mrs. Llewellyn Page, Mrs. E. B. Kloppenstine, Mrs. Marshall Harshbarger, Mrs. Ben Shafer; and the activities committee, Mrs. Frank Strauch, Mrs. Marion Snyder and Mrs. E. G. Smith.

The auxiliary Christmas party will be held jointly with the Junior Auxiliary, on Dec. 7. There will be a covered dish dinner at 6.30 p.m. with a gift exchange for both groups. A donation will be taken for the Xenia Home. The committee will consist of Mrs. Arthur Vaughn chairman, Mrs. C. M. Harley, Mrs. E. L. Capell, Mrs. Charles Grummel and Mrs. R. L. Hoffman, assisted by the activities committee.

NO SAFETY ANYWHERE

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UP) — The University of Kansas School of Engineering and Architecture is no longer a man's stronghold. A record enrollment of women, 14 of them, invaded the school this Fall.

Half of Finland's workers had industrial jobs in 1953 compared with less than one-fourth in 1904.

Children's Square Dancing Classes at YMCA Near End

Square dancing classes for children at the YMCA are drawing to a close. Marvin Ludwig, youth director of the Y said classes for youngsters would end the next time the groups meet.

The course, taught by Mrs. Opal Gabler, was designed to give the children fellowship and fun, create new fields of expression through recreation, and have persons who can participate in exchange programs with other clubs.

Youth classes are held on Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Participating in the Wednesday class are group one of the grade school girls, groups one and three of the Preps, and groups two and three of the Plebes.

Group two of the grade school girls meets Friday with group two of the Preps and group one of the Plebes.

Also being conducted now are square dancing classes for adults. These are held on the second Thursday and third Saturday of each month at 8 p.m. There are still several openings in this class.

Junior High School students have their own special classes. Divided into two sections of 36 each. They meet each Monday night at 8 p.m. Ludwig said this branch still has quite a few openings, and any junior high school students interested in the program should sign up for the course at the YMCA registration desk.

Ludwig also asked that all younger children who have signed up for the classes be present for the next sessions. For those younger persons who did not sign up for the present course, there will be another similar class conducted after the holidays.

The grade school students' class started near the end of October, and will run until the end of this month.

MORRAL CHURCH PROGRAM

Thanksgiving Sunday will be observed at the Morral Methodist Church with a special program for Sunday School on Sunday at 10 a.m., and worship at 11. Pupils from various classes will take part in the opening and closing portions of the Sunday School in charge of Clyde Forry, superintendent. For worship hour, a guest speaker will fill the pulpit for Rev. J. T. Yocom who is ill.

Finland is about one and a half times the size of Great Britain.

Sen. Carlson Gets Complaint On Patronage

Claim Civil Service Commission Holding Out on Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) said today the Senate Civil Service Committee he heads has been urged to look into complaints the Civil Service Commission is failing to open up policy-making jobs to Republicans.

The Kansan said many complaints and requests for such an inquiry had come in, some from GOP senators But he declined to say whether the committee would undertake such an investigation when Congress comes back in January.

"There is a feeling," he said in an interview, "that the commission has not permitted the new administration to put its own people into policy-making positions

"Those who have asked us to make an investigation say that the result has been that government policy has not always been in the direction intended by the President"

Last week Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) called upon Philip Young to resign as chairman of the Civil Service Commission, citing the same reason Carlson said had been raised.

Young gave no indication then of intent to resign. He said, "I feel perfectly satisfied that the Civil Service Commission has followed a middle-of-the-road policy in respect to placing key jobs under the administration's control"

It is an open secret that there is continued Republican discontent over patronage Some senators have said privately they hated to go back to their home states because they had been able to obtain relatively few jobs for constituents.

Much of this dissatisfaction has centered on Young The Civil Service Commission has turned down about 850 requests of Republican department heads that jobs be transferred to schedule "C" while granting about 770. The schedule "C" jobs are those held to be policy-making or confidential. They can be filled politically.

Young reportedly has voted with Frederick J. Lawton, Democratic member of the commission, in a number of cases in which schedule "C" applications were rejected. Young is a Republican. This has left George M Moore, the second GOP member, in the minority in these cases.

Democrats Hop On Prediction Of Deficit in '54

Claim Administration Reneges on Election Campaign Promises

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key Democrats in Congress today hopped on President Eisenhower's prediction of an unbalanced budget next year as a concession that his administration is reneging on campaign promises.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he does not believe the federal budget can be balanced in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

It was the first such outright statement from the administration on the question. It climaxed a gradual retreat from a statement by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey last May that a balanced budget was possible by next July 1.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that a balanced budget is a primary goal of his administration.

But Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb), a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he wasn't giving up hope yet. He said conditions may change and if the administration can't find the way, Congress may lend a hand.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), a member of the Appropriations Committee, said he was not surprised at Eisenhower's statement.

"The Republicans promised in the election campaign last year that they would reduce taxes, balance the budget, and provide an adequate national defense," he said in a separate interview.

"They should have known it would be impossible to fulfill all these promises."

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, assistant Democratic leader in the House, commented: "Everybody knows the Republicans promised lower taxes, more defense and a balanced budget and lesser defense."

McCormack said the situation would produce "a very intense session of Congress next year, as it becomes more and more apparent that the Republicans are unable to deliver on their promises."

Republicans have indicated they will seek to counter such attacks with contentions that most of their budget difficulties were inherited from the Truman administration.

Five in Georgia Accused Of Starting Forest Fires

ROME, Ga., (AP)—Five persons have been arrested on charges of starting some of the forest fires raging in northwest Georgia.

E. H. Terry, chief fire investigator for the Georgia Forestry commission, said two teen-agers arrested here yesterday told him they set three fires near Rome's Russell Airport "just to see them burn."

Three men arrested in a lonely shack near the Georgia-Alabama line admitted they started fires by throwing firecrackers into dry grass and underbrush, Terry reported. They were charged with setting 16 fires.

MOTHER OF 4 IN JAIL

CLEVELAND (AP)—An industrial nurse and divorced mother of four children was jailed last night after a two-week shopping spree in which she bought $1,420 worth of merchandise by using another woman's charge-plate she found, Detective James Masterson said. Mrs. Helene Kleeberg, 41, who was charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses, spent most of the money at two department stores on clothes for her four youngsters, the detective said.

New Nash Autos Go on Display Friday

NEW 1954 MODELS of the Nash automobiles will be on display Friday at E. E. Drumm Nash Sales, 342 N. Main St. Featured this year is a new 108-inch wheelbase Rambler four-door sedan.

This new line is said to offer the same advantages of the 100-inch wheelbase two-door Rambler plus extra back seat and luggage room. Pinin Farina of Europe was the designer of the new model, which he built along continental lines.

An improved "Super Flying Scot" engine powers the new models. Featured as standard equipment on the new line are continental rear tire mount, Weather Eye air conditioning, radio, clock, and directional signals.

Offered as optional equipment on the new four-door Ramblers are the Nash twin beds and reclining seats. Also available as optional equipment is Hydra-Matic drive and overdrive.

Other models of the 1954 Nash feature mechanical changes. In the Ambassador and Statesman series, the engine is a Statesman "Dual Powerflyte" engine, with aluminum cylinder head and dual carburetors as standard equipment.

As optional equipment, power steering and power brakes are available as well as electrically operated windows. The continental spare tire mount is standard equipment on the two models as well as on the four-door Country Club hardtop model.

In the 1954 100-inch wheelbase Rambler series, three models are available, the convertible, station wagon, and Country Club hardtop.

On the convertible and Country Club models, the continental spare tire mount is standard equipment. The 1954 Rambler custom convertible said to give both the safety of a sedan plus the advantage of the convertible.

Two steel frame rails above the side windows give overhead safety protection.

A wide range of colors and color combinations are offered to the buyer of a 1954 Nash. There are 14 solid colors as well as 14 two-tone combinations available.

Engines in the 1954 four-door Rambler series are rated at 90 horsepower. In the Statesman and Ambassador lines, the power has been increased to 110 horsepower. The 100-inch wheelbase Rambler engine varies from 85 horsepower with standard transmission to 90 in cars with Hydra-Matic drive.

In the Rambler four-door, Ambassador, and Statesman lines, customs, super sedans and Country Club hardtops can be had.

In the United States, 57 per cent of the new cars are sold on the installment plan.

Salem Asks Time Extension on Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It appeared today Salem officials would get more time to prepare plans for improving their sewage treatment plant.

Salem's Mayor-elect Dean B. Crammer and President - elect James G. Aidom of the City Council conferred here yesterday with staff members of the Ohio Water Pollution Board and the state health department. They asked for an extension of the time alloted Salem to submit plans for sewage treatment plant improvement. A state official said it was probable a recommendation for more time would be passed on to the water pollution board.

Salem's present permit to discharge wastes into streams expires Jan. 4. The present sewage treatment plant is unable to carry the burden, and the state board in granting the permit ordered that plans or improvements be submitted and approved by the board on the expiration date.

Marshall Leads Attack

Marion Barons Defeated 4-3 by Louisville Skaters

Marion's Barons were dropped 4-3 by Louisville last night in an International Hockey League game played in that Kentucky city.

Roy Marshall led the host team to the win by notching a three-goal hat trick to spark the Louisville scoring.

The Barons jumped into a 2-1 lead in the first quarter but fell behind after a two-goal spurt by the Louisville club in the second quarter. It snapped a two-game winning streak for the Marion club.

The home team jumped off to a flying start when Marshall broke the scoring ice after 5:36 had elapsed in the first period. The Barons came storming back and after 13:02 Ken Schultz shoved in a goal on an assist from Hal Jones and Tony Poeta. Gordia Vejprava put the Barons ahead 2-1 at 16:40 with Jones drawing another assist and one going to Steve Briklacich.

Houston knotted the count for the winners after 3:55 in the second quarter. He was assisted by Palmer. Marshall's second score came at 4:33 to take the lead. He was aided by Sheraban and Doglish.

Joe Ingoldsby sent Marion hopes soaring when he scored an unassisted goal after 2:53 of the third and final period. He grabbed a deflected disc and raced by Joe Noland for the score. Marshall came back with his third goal and his first hat trick of the season with 18:15 gone in the last period. He was assisted on the winning goal by Sheraban and Calhoun.

Marion's goal tender Lou Crowdis notched 31 saves during the action. LeClaire batted away 33 Marion shots.

Stanford Back Faces Charge In Draft Case

HONOLULU (AP)—The U. S. attorney's office last night announced it has filed a warrant—charging failure to report for the draft—for the arrest of Stanford halfback Allen N. Napoleon.

The charge came on the eve of Saturday's big game between Stanford and California, on which depends Stanford's hopes of a Rose Bowl bid. Napoleon, 21, scored Stanford's winning touchdown Oct. 17 over UCLA, the other top Pacific Coast contender for the bowl.

U. S. Atty. A. William Barlow said Napoleon, classified 1A, had been refused extensions of his deferrment and had failed to report for induction July 15.

But at Palo Alto, Calif., the speedy, breakaway halfback declared "It must be a mistake."

Napoleon said he never received a notice of induction and that only two weeks ago he complied with instructions to file a change of address form with his home draft board in Honolulu.

In San Francisco, Asst. U. S. Atty. John Riordan, in charge of handling draft cases, said at first glance Napoleon's offense could be a technical violation and "there is a possibility that it will be reconsidered by the authorities involved."

The San Francisco FBI office said tersely "We have no information we can furnish at this time on the Napoleon case." Later, an FBI spokesman said no immediate arrest was planned.

Badgers Grab Offense Lead From Illinois

CHICAGO (AP)—Wisconsin—by the margin of only one yard—has replaced Illinois as the Big Ten's No. 1 team on offense and the Illini also have been jolted out of a tie with Michigan State in top defensive ratings.

Illinois' downfall in both departments stemmed from its 34-7 crushing by Wisconsin last week.

Official conference statistics today showed the Badgers averaging 359.2 yards per game, 949.2 by rushing and 110 by passing.

Illinois' total is 358.2, including 289 4 on the ground that still is the best rushing mark. Wisconsin is second in rushing with 249.2 and has a 110 on passing to the Illini's 68 8.

The best aerial team is Indiana with an average of 143.6.

Michigan State rates first on defense, yielding to opponents only 188.5 yards per game.

Illinois' J. C. Caroline, who has cinched the national rushing title with 1,158 yards in eight games and set a Big Ten record of 821 in five league games, will shoot for two more conference marks against Northwestern in Saturday's finale.

He is averaging 171 yards per game, compared to the record of 167.3 Michigan's Bill Daley in three 1943 games. Caroline has carried 127 times for an average of 25 4, compared to the 147 running attempts in one season by Wisconsin's Alan Ameche in 1951.

U.S. Net Stars Fall; Cup Chances Fade

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—America's hopes of regaining the Davis Cup dipped today with the defeat of both Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas in the semi-finals of the New South Wales Tennis Championships.

In what was looked upon as a preview of Davis Cup strength the Americans went down before two 19-year-old Australians, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall.

Hoad whipped Trabert, the U. S. champion from Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-2, 5-7, 7-5. Seixas, the Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia, tumbled in straight set before the agile Rosewall, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Harding, St. Mary Cage Squads Prep for Campaigns

Prexies Begin Next Week; Irish Slate Starts Dec. 4

By MIKE HUBER

Although it's still Indian Summer outdoors, local high school athletes have gone indoors where Harding and St. Mary are drilling for the rapidly approaching basketball season.

Harding doesn't have too much time to get ready. The Prexies open next Wednesday when they meet Bexley in the first game to be played in the gym of the new Harding High School.

St. Mary has another week, opening at Carey on Dec. 4.

Harding faces a 19-game schedule with 10 at home, nine on the road. The Irish have scheduled 20 games, 14 here and six away.

Both Seek Improvement

Both teams are out to better rather mediocre records they posted last year. The Prexies had a 9-7 record during the season and lost their first post-season tournament game. St. Mary had an 11-9 slate and won three games before being dropped out of tournament play.

In preparation for his first season of senior high school coaching, Jim Lawler has been holding practice sessions at Harding for several weeks.

Graduation hit Harding lightly. Although the Prexies lost their ace, Bill Smiley, graduation took only one other player, sixth man Andy Simon.

Reporting back this year are five lettermen—Don Smith, Doug Bibler, Marv McFann, Bob Hamor and Dave Schneiker.

The way it shapes up now, Lawler's first five consists of Ron Conroy and Smith at the guards, McFann and Mav Kaelber the forwards and Schneiker at center.

Temporary Lineup

However, that lineup is only temporary. Lawler expects it to change as the footballers, who just reported for practice Monday, get back their basketball eye and form.

Eleven men went right from the gridiron to the court after Harding closed its football season Friday night. They were Hamor, Bibler, Gene Armstrong, Joe Snouffer, Chet King, Phil Carroll, Frank D'Eramo, Fred Price, Hank Rinnert, Don Schweinfurth and Fred Hazen.

Thirty hopefuls, including a host of lettermen, checked in with Coach Ray Robbins Monday for the opening practice at St. Mary.

Returning to the Irish court this season are 10 lettermen led by Mike Anderson, last year's high-scorer with 371 points.

Also coming back are seniors Don Shoemaker, Butch Merchant, Larry Ryan, Pat O'Connor, Jack McNamara and Jack O'Keefe and juniors Roger Micheli, Jerry Ballenger and John Messenger.

Shoemaker, however, won't be playing any ball for at least two months. He broke a pelvic bone in St. Mary's last football game and has been confined to bed.

The Irish are missing only three regulars from last year's squad—Joe Tinnerello, Dave Smith and Joe Murphy.

Schedules Listed

Harding's 1953-54 schedule follows.

Nov 25, Bexley here; Dec. 1, at Galion; Dec. 4, at Willard; Dec. 8, Columbus Aquinas here; Dec. 11, at Columbus West; Dec. 18, Bowling Green here, Dec. 22, at Findlay; Dec. 29, Ashland here; Jan 8, at Fostoria; Jan. 12, Shelby here, Jan. 15, Fremont here; Jan 22, at Tiffin Columbian; Jan. 29, at Bowling Green; Feb. 2, Galion here, Feb. 5, Findlay here; Feb. 9, at Shelby; Feb. 12, Fostoria here; Feb. 19, at Fremont; Feb. 26, Tiffin Columbian here.

The complete St. Mary schedule for 1953-54 follows:

Dec. 4, at Carey; Dec. 11, at Mt. Gilead; Dec. 15, Fostoria St. Wendelin here; Dec. 19, Tiffin Calvert here; Dec. 22, at Columbus Aquinas; Dec. 28-29, Carnival here (St. Mary, Elm Valley, Radnor, Lexington); Jan. 2, Morral here; Jan. 5, Kenton here; Jan. 8, at Richwood, Jan. 9, at Cardington; Jan. 16, Columbus Holy Family here; Jan. 19, Delphos St. John here; Jan. 23, Columbus Holy Rosary here; Jan. 29, Mt. Gilead here; Feb. 6, Elm Valley here; Feb. 12, Johnsville here; Feb. 13, Delaware Willis here; Feb. 16, at Fredericktown; Feb. 19, Marysville here.

Only one new team appears on the Harding schedule. That is Columbus Aquinas which will play here Dec. 8.

Six of St. Mary's opponents were not on the 1952-53 slate. They include Morral, Kenton, Johnsville, Delaware Willis, Fredericktown and Marysville. With the exception of Fredericktown, all the new foes will be playing at the Coliseum.

U.S. Golf Officials Move Against Use Of Smaller Ball

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Golf Assn. today called upon its member clubs to help eliminate the distribution of the smaller-sized British golf ball in the United States and characterized the use of the small ball as "contrary to the rules and a disservice to the game."

In a strongly worded letter sent out to the clubs, USGA President Totton P. Heffelfinger and Charles B. Grace, chairmen of the Emplements and Ball Committee, asked each club to inform its members of the essential facts—including the fact that the rules permit the use of the British ball only in international matches, under penalty of disqualification—and to see that their professionals sell only merchandise which conforms with USGA rules.

Single Platoon Play Produces Rugged Backs

NEW YORK (AP)—Seldom if ever have The Associated Press regional All-America football boards had as tough a job as they're facing right now in trying to determine the four best college backs in a bumper crop spawned by the return of one platoon play.

Midwest board members are having a particularly hard time with the number of standout performers who have jumped at the chance to show what they can do playing both offense and defense.

Notre Dame's Johnny Lattner, Minnesota's Paul Giel and Wisconsin's Alan Ameche are rated tops in the Midwest. Lattner, an All-America exception to the specialists in 1952, has been the clutch player and inspirational leader of the nation's No. 1 team.

Giel, another All-America from last year, continues to draw raves despite the fact he has been slowed down in several games.

Ameche, known as "The Horse" is a ram-rod runner at fullback for the Badgers who sparked the 34-7 upset over Illinois last week and earlier pulled two games out of the fire.

The endless stream of adjectives from the Pacific slopes are directed mostly toward UCLA handyman Paul Cameron and Stanford's passer, Bob Garrett.

Another group of nominees under consideration include Illinois' J. C. Caroline, Ohio State's Bobby Watkins, Michigan State's Leroy Bolden, Oklahoma's Larry Grigg, Georgia Tech's Leon Hardeman, Arizona's Ken Cardella, Kansas State's Veryl Switzer, Maryland's Chet Hanulak, Utah's Don Rydalch and Oklahoma A&M's Bill Bredde.

The Cardinals surprised the Rams and 26,674 fans by taking a 17-0 lead in the first period and holding a 17-10 advantage at halftime. But the Rams tied the score in the third period and took the lead on an 80-yard drive in the fourth. Then, with Trippi hitting his receivers from the spread formation, the Cards went 73 yards. The payoff pass was an 18-yarder to Don Paul.

Bowling

Grace Gunder's 200 and Opal Stroupe's 496 set the pace in the Ladies All Star League at Marion Recreation Wednesday night. Carroll's Jewelry fired 789-2196 for team honors. Browns Could Knock Steelers Out of Chase

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns, moving within field-goal range of the greatest season in their glossy history, play Pittsburgh Sunday in a game that could knock the third-place Steelers out of even a mathematical chance for pro football's Eastern Division title.

Coach Paul Brown, looking back on eight straight wins, still says this year's Browns "haven't got it until they get it," but the division championship—at least—looks all but on the shelf, despite three injured guards and a banged up linebacker.

Pittsburgh's Coach Joe Bach, who lost by 18 points the first time his club met Cleveland this year, says there's "no defeatist attitude" among his plaers. "They all have the feeling the Browns are not invincible. We may give them a surprise."

He added that if quarterback Jimmy Finks "is hitting on his passes, we'll give them plenty of trouble."

Upset Possible

Iowa Fans Feel Hawkeyes Can Edge Past Notre Dame

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—You don't hear anyone out here bragging that Iowa will lick Notre Dame in a football game Saturday—but many are saying they wouldn't be surprised if Iowa wins provided the Hawks play like they did against Minnesota.

Iowa fans, pleasantly pleased before the Minnesota game with a team that had a 4-3 record, really became hepped up when their favorites walloped the Gophers 27-0 last week with a fury unmatched perhaps since the championship days of 1921 and 1922.

The victory wasn't entirely unexpected but its decisiveness was. Iowa simply crumpled the Gophers and All American Paul Giel. Minnesota made a net of 81 yards and Giel, the Big Ten's total offense leader, got only 13 by rushing and 22 by passing.

But Notre Dame is something different. The undefeated Irish, ranked No. 1 in the nation, have linemen in sufficient numbers to perhaps more than match Iowa's hard-hitting men up front. Minnesota didn't and that was the difference—crunching blocks and tackles.

Iowa and Notre Dame have met every year since 1945 with Notre Dame winning six games. Two were ties. Before that, Iowa had beaten the Irish, three times—in 1921, 1939 and 1940.

Coach Forest Evashevski, whom Iowans give most credit for the Hawks' gridiron resurgence, said after the Minnesota game:

"We have a good chance against Notre Dame if we don't let down from this peak. It shouldn't be hard to get the club up against Notre Dame. On the other hand, I'm catching myself with that feeling of internal glow after a win like that, and it's dangerous to feel that way with a team like Notre Dame coming up."

Rupp Won't Talk

Kentucky Returns to Cage Play After Year's Layoff

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Kentucky, a name long synonymous with collegiate basketball, appears ready to regain its place among the nation's elites after a one-year exile.

Adolph Rupp, whose 23-year record at Kenucky includes 471 victories and 82 losses, frames the outlook in eight carefully chosen words:

"The university will have its usual representative team."

Rupp says with a straight face that he isn't sure how the year's layoff — Kentucky was suspended for one year by the NCAA as an aftermath of the bribery scandal—has affected the play of his veterans. The Baron admits, however, that "our freshman and sophomores seem to have come along faster with the extra practice than they would have if we'd had a regular schedule."

Despite Rupp's caution, the advance dope is that Kentucky is loaded—as usual. The team that won four national tournament titles in the past eight years—will be headed by veterans Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsioropoulos. This trio is capable of brewing considerable misery for its 24 opponents.

Some believe it could become one of the greatest outfits since the 1948 Kentucky team, which shared the Olympic championships. Besides the veteran trio, the squad includes letterman Bill Evans, Gayle Rose and Willie Rouse. Among the sophomores, at least four apepar to be outstanding. They are 6-foot-6 Jerry Bird, 67 Phil Grawemeyer, and guards Linville Puckett and Jess Curry.

Kentucky will not be the South's only powerhouse. North Carolina State, despite the loss of 14 prospects through ineligiblity, figures to be at least as good as last year. The Wolfpack of 1952 won 26 of 32 last year, captured the Southern Conference title but lost the conference tournament to Wake Forest by one point.

Six lettermen are back from that team, including Mel Thompson, who scored 536 points, and Dave Gotkin, an All South guard. In addition, Coach Everett Case has a bevy of fine-looking sophomores who could move en masse into the starting lineup. The best of these is 6-7 Ronnie Shavlik, who averaged 21 points a game as a freshman. Guards Vic Molodet and Whitey Bell also have looked good.

"Western Kentucky," says a communique from Bowling Green, Ky., "should have the best team assembled by Ed Diddle in his 33 years as head coach."

Basis for this boast is that four out of the five starters are back for their senior year. Like all Diddle's teams this will be one that can run, shoot and score, and it will be rich in experience as well. Probable starters will be Tom Marshall and Dan King at forward, 6-9½ Art Spoelstra at center, and Lynn Cole and Dyke Vest at guard.

Louisiana State is expected to give Kentucky a stiff battle for the Southwestern Conference title. Coach Harry Rabenhorst has 6-9 Bobby Pettit and all his other starters back. A good long shot is Tulane, which also gets its back.

In the new Atlantic Coast Conference, Maryland, banking on Gene Shue, and Wake Forest, with high-scoring Dick Hemric, are the best bets to challenge N. C. State. In the old Southern Conference, it looks like a three-way battle among West Virginia, Furman and George Washington. Furman, the No. 1 offensive team last year, has the brilliant Frank Selvy back. Washington is loaded with veterans and West Virginia is a fast, tall, goodscoring outfit.

No Desire for Divorce, Husband of Singer Says

TAEGU, Korea (AP)—Sgt. John H. Brown said today he and TV singer Dorothy McGuire "have no desire for a divorce" and he has canceled plans to fly back to the United States.

Brown asked for and was given a leave after singer Julius LaRosa said he and Miss McGuire hoped to marry.

"Everything is now clarified," Brown said today. "I have withdrawn my request for leave. There will be no divorce."

Miss McGuire is a featured singer on the Arthur Godfrey show. LaRosa's interest in her was divulged after he was fired by Godfrey.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Marion football fans who made the trip to Cleveland Sunday to watch the Browns-49ers struggle came away wondering what would happen should the Brownies lose Otto Graham and Lou Groza for keeps.

Graham was plowed into late in the second period and was forced to retire for the second time during his professional career. From that point the Browns' attack bogged down. George Ratterman, Graham's replacement, apparently was told to stay on the ground.

SHORT

Without Graham pitching the ball, the clock beat the Browns after they managed to reach Groza's gap inside the 30. With Otto throwing, the 80,000 fans were sure the Browns would have had at least an additional three points.

Brown has come up with a set of top-flight halfbacks in Bill Reynolds and Ray Renfro but Graham's arm is still his most valuable possession. The Cleveland quarterback threw the ball 24 times and hit on 17 of his attempts. His passes were instrumental in setting up all of the Brown scoring. Once the San Francisco defense stiffened, Brown called on Groza and the big fellow responded with 11 of the 23 points.

Despite the throwing of Graham and Groza's placements, the defensive work of the Browns came in for a lion's share of the credit. The rugged forward wall stopped the 49ers cold when they recovered a fumble only 19 yards from the winning points. In four plays the Cleveland team took over at its 31, for a gain of 12 yards while the ball was in possession of the other team.

Passengers on the return train to Marion were sure Brown has his most powerful pro team and were betting he wonld take the division title. Some, even more confident, were wagering the Browns would whip the Western Conference winner for the NFL title. No one covered the bets.

FAMILY MAN. Bob Feller, Cleveland Indian mound star, turned down a chance at a free meal in Marion early this week.

Harold Henry, who is in charge of contacting Feller on the awards night program for Pony and Little Leaguers, invited the star out to dinner here before he speaks at a meeting Nov. 27 at Harding High School.

Feller turned down the invitation and told Henry he would arrive at the last minute. He said he wanted to spend as much time as possible with his three sons during the off season. He pointed out he gets little time to enjoy their company once spring training begins.

HIT BY CAR, KILLED

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Charles Pracht, 66, of Defiance, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile as he was walking near the city limits of Defiance.

Irish, Richwood Dominate All-League Gridiron Squad

Five St. Mary gridders and three Richwood stars were named to All-Mid-Ohio Conference team last night at a dinner meeting held by the conference at Hotel Harding.

Pat O'Connor nailed down a berth at an end and John Kelly was named to a tackle spot. Jerry Ballenger was placed as an all-league choice at guard. Mike Anderson and Larry Ryan filled backfield spots in the league coaches' selections.

Richwood gridders named were Fred Cheney at an end, Max Hoffman at tackle and Tom Shields who filled the quarterback spot. The all-conference team was rounded out by Phil Ingmire at Elm Valley at the other guard, John Wells of Cardington at center and Mt. Gilead's Ted Moody in the backfield.

Honorable mention went to Ed Vanausdale of Elm Valley, a back, Walt Borchers, Elm Valley back, Larry Chapman and Bob Roberts of Richwood, both in the backfield. Paul Reuhrmund and Jim Snyder, Cardington linemen and Gerald Weaver of Mt. Gilead, a guard.

St. Mary, conference champions, were awarded the league trophy and the rotating trophy presented by Radio Station WMRN.

During the business meeting, league schools approved the admission of Olentangy school of Delaware County into the league. The new member, however, will have no standing in the league until it is able to schedule all member schools in football and basketball. That isn't expected until 1955.

The March 17 league meeting was moved to March 24 to avoid conflict with St. Mary's annual athletic awards program on St. Patrick's Day

Attending last night's meeting were Robert Mason and Ed Paulin of WMRN; Robert McFarland, coach at Olentangy School; Rev. Fr. William J. Spickerman, pastor at St. Mary; DeWitt Nicholson, Mt. Gilead principal; Robert Blose, Mt. Gilead superintendent; Eugene West, assistant coach at Mt. Gilead; Ray Robbins, Henry Davis, Nelson Irvin and the Rev Fr. Robert Gately of St. Mary; Floyd Davis, assistant Cardington coach; Ken Paul, coach at Elm Valley, Fritz Drodofsky, Richwood mentor; R. D. Fetter, athletic director at Richwood, A. D O'Keeffe, faculty manager for St. Mary; H. R. Fisher, superintendent at Richwood; and J. L. Patterson, superintendent at Carding ton.

Toledoan Gets 15 Days In Jail for Starving Dog

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Convicted of starving a dog, William McLain, 26, will serve 15 days in the Lucas County Jail.

He is the first Toledo man sentenced under a state law covering cruelty to animals, which calls for a maximum punishment of 90 days in jail and a $200 fine for the first offense.

Bucks Ease Up For Struggle With Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's footballers are putting a new twist on the policy of being "up" for a big game.

They are easing their way into Saturday's clash with traditional rival Michigan at Ann Arbor.

In the past the Bucks have been known to beat themselves by getting frantic during the week before the game with their old rivals.

But the Buckeye brain trust is doing everything it can to see that doesn't happen this time. Coach Woody Hayes already has begun tapering off the practice workouts.

The boys look good, he said, and he wants to keep them in their current fine physical fettle.

His aid, Scout Esco Sarkkinen, last night outlined what he considers the three keys to beating Michigan.

1. Mental freshness—"and that old positive confidence."

2. A great all-out team effort especially by the Bucks big guns—tackle George Jacoby, backs John Borton, Howard Cassady and Bobby Watkins, and end Tommy Hague—for the full four periods.

3. Coaching know-how. Much of Ohio's success or failure will depend on whether the Buckeyes can develop defenses to bottle up the [illegible] varied offensive patterns of the Wolverines, he said.

Passing will play a major part, Sarkkinen predicted.

"Every man in the Michigan backfield throws. Even the fullbacks have two different pass plays (a buck lateral jump and a running aerial pattern)".

What's more, he asserted, the Wolverines are the best pass defenders in the Big Ten.

Insurance Adjuster Has Faith in Fellow Citizens

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Insurance adjuster Thomas B. Thurman found a packet of $10 bills—$500 in all—on a downtown street yesterday.

He turned the money over to police. An employe of a Salt Lake City department store showed up to report the loss within an hour.

"I sure never expected to see that money again," the employe said.

But Thurman, notified of the recovery said:

"I hope he didn't worry too much—anyone would have returned the money."

Buckeyes, Irish Picked To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — There were more upsets than bargains in the basement of a department store last weekend with the result that this department's average skidded to .787 for the season from its rather lofty spot of .801.

Although the outcomes of the Army - Penn, Alabama - Georgia Tech and Wisconsin-Illinois football games of last Saturday were picked correctly, those of 13 others were not. In all there were 39 correct selections. That's an average of .745.

The year's figures are now 311 correct, 81 incorrect.

With absolutely no idea where the incorrect ones are this time:

Notre Dame over Iowa: There was a time in the past when Iowa always troubled Notre Dame. Maybe those days have returned. But it doesn't seem possible that the Hawkeyes, despite two good lines, will more than frighten Lattner, Worden and company.

Midwest: Michigan State over Marquette, Missouri over Kansas, Ohio State over Michigan, Indiana over Purdue, Tulsa over Detroit.

Protection of Children 'Built-In' At Model Village in Stockholm

By FRED MANOR

STOCKHOLM (NANA)—Vallingby, Stockholm's new suburb, has done more than have a road-safety week. This new town boasts every idea that should make safety weeks unnecessay.

In Vallingby all roads leading to the school, the playgrounds, shops, parks and even the subway station, are away from the motor traffic. Where these roads have to cross highways, they do so at a different level. No danger then of a pedestrian or a cyclist trying to get to the other side of the road in face of oncoming cars.

This is just one of the many interesting features of this new town that will house 23,000 and be a center for a community of 80,000. Everthing has been carefully planned, down to the last kitchen sink and to become a real town, and not merely a "dormitory" for people working in Stockholm, Vallingby will have its own industries, its department stores and smart shops, and all facilities for trading, recreation and entertainment.

EACH PROSPECTIVE owner-tenant has to build his house by himself. The Stockholm city council provides all plans, and contributes 40 per cent of the cost as a subsidy, and 10 per cent in the form of building material in payment for the tenant's labor. The rest is a load sparead over 35 years at a rate of 3-½ per cent

Layers, clerks and factory workers, and their families, can be seen evenings, or on week ends, busily building their houses, with an initial cash outlay of only $75.

But rents are not exactly low. A four-room apartment in a council houses costs $15 a week, and the rent for a two-room flat is about $10. Since the average income in Sweden is $36 a week, this means that both husband and wife have to work, and have little time to enjoy their model homes.

THE LARGE BLOCK of flats forms a closed-in yard, turned into the park, cannot get out with-leading from the building into the park are automatically closed, and can be opened only by pushing a button, which is situated fairly high. So that children, once put into the park, cannot get out without the help of an adult.

The estate has its own day nursery, a nonprofit grocery store, and a restaurant. A clause in the lease obliges each tenant and all members of his family to eat at least 25 meals a month in the estate's restaurant. The cost of such a meal is 45 cents, and a charge of five cents is made when the meal is delivered to the tenant's apartment.

However, each flat also has a lovely kitchen, equipped with a refrigerator and many other modern appliances.

Large Family Finds Hope in Battle of Bills

NEW YORK (UP) — The family budget can be stretched even farther.

It may mean that father becomes the family barber and mother settles for last year's hemlines.

But there's hope for those about to surrender in the battle of the bills. This hope is in a book by a couple with five children who learned how to stretch their income the hard way—by necessity. They say they managed, without feeling they were depriving themselves.

Robert and Helen Cissell found the cost of living increasingly out of control as their family grew. Mrs. Cissell has been teaching home economics and her husband is a professor of family economics at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

The two say there are three ways to handle family finances — two bad, and one good.

"One of the wrong methods," they said, "is for a family to try to get enough money to buy everything wanted by everyone in the family. A family will never win this way . . . . uncontrolled wants will invariably out - distance even a rapidly rising income."

"The second wrong answer . . . . is for the parents to shirk their duty, limiting the size of the family, so that the few survivors may have all the gadgets they want."

The right way, the Cissells said, is to set a standard of living which is within your income and control material wants. And let the whole family plan the budget.

Their book "Stretching The Family Income" (Joseph F. Wagner, New York), recommends budgeting by the year, but figuring expenses on a day-to-day basis instead of weekly or monthly.

"When reducing the daily expenses fails to balance the budget, start whittling on the so-called fixed expenses," they said. "The answer may be in less elaborate living quarters or lower premium insurance, or postponing the new car."

The Cissells remind that cutting small expenses means large saving. Cut the food bill with home canning, do your own home maintenance, cut the children's hair yourself, ("practice makes perfect"), rebuild old toys.

"Save money by working together," they said. "At the same time you'll increase family unity."

And finally, the Cissells have a word about style changes.

"Sections of the clothing industry," they said, "operate on the idea that clothes are not made to wear but to go out of style . . . .

While moving the hemline up and down may make a good living for those who dream up the new fashions, it can have a disastrous effect on the family budget."

FANCY EXTINGUISHERS

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Now Christmas tree ornaments double as safety gadgets. One manufacturer (Fireball Corp., Philadelphia) is making small glass ball-shaped ornaments filled with red carbon tetrachloride. The ornament turns into an extinguisher if the tree catches fire. Heat sets off a fuse, and the manufacturer says one ball contains enough fluid to put out a flash fire on a six-foot tree.

DUCK SIGNPOST

PORTLAND, Me. (UP) — Maine fishermen are ready to swear that ducks use Whitehead on Cushing's Island as a route marker. In fall and spring the ducks circle over the landmark several times and then head south or north, depending on the season.

Fish fights are a major sport in Thailand.

Survey Reveals Women In U.S. Cities Watch Diet

WASHINGTON (UP) — No wonder today's urban woman keeps her figure. She keeps the calories down, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

The department, in a continuing study of eating habits of the nation, finds that the average city homemaker is a "light eater," consuming an average of 1,760 calories daily. Her diet runs low in two important nutrients — calcium and the B-vitamin (riboflavin). She runs above standard, however, in vitamin-A consumption. The report is based on a study of food consumption of 1,000 women in Birmingham, Buffalo, San Francisco, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The study also shows that older women eat less, and get fewer nutrients than younger women. Homemakers with outside jobs follow about the same diet pattern as women doing housework daily.

PUT IT ON THE DOG

BOSTON (UP)—The well-dressed dog costs his master a pretty penny these days. A Boston pet shop posts these prices: raincoat [illegible] (choice of color), $2.50 to $5; shoes, $4; overcoats, $6 to $28.

SCARCELY A MAN, ETC.

BOSTON (UP)—More than 100,000 tourists each year visit Old North Church, from whose steeple came the lantern signal that sent [illegible] on his midnight ride Paul Revere on his midnight ride April 18, 1775.

Move Beaten, Leader Admits

British Guiana Reds Fail In Bid To Seize Country

By RICHARD HALL

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, (NANA)—In a 10,000-word statement just issued, one of the former key men in British Guiana's Communist-run Peoples Progressive party's efforts to link this British colony with Moscow have finally been smashed.

The statement was made by handsome, 45-year-old Sonny Gungadin. A sugar chemist by profession, he is a Guianese Indian who speaks English with an American accent. His name, earlier this year, was linked romantically with that of Mrs. Janet Jagan.

"This courageous woman hankers after a martyr's halo," says Gungadin. "She is ambitious to die with her boots on and she probably will.

And, Gungadin adds, Moscow will now severely censure Dr. Cheddi Jagan, leader of the PPP here, and his associates for their blunders. The people of British Guiana, he continues, have now completely lost confidence in their former Communist-controlled leaders.

THE CHICAGO BORN Janet, wife of Dr. Jagan and the brains behind the party here, alone seems to have retained some semblance of her usual spirit and skill.

The top points Gungadin makes in his statement are that: the party's top men never had either the capacity nor the sincerity for constructive leadership; Cheddi Jagan and his associates tried to subvert the colony's constitution into an instrument of absolute power for themselves and to convert Guiana into a Communist state. To this end they aimed primarily to win over the working classes. They tried to implement their plans by using familiar Communist techniques, such as creating economic chaos, inspiring race hatred, distorting truth, and inciting treachery, violence and lawlessness.

The Peoples Progressive Party's leaders here were too ignorant to recognize and face political facts and lacked the ability and knowledge to do better than they did, Gungadin stated.

The vast majority of Guiana's population now expresses confidence in the British government, Sir Alfred Savage, governor of the colony, had no choice except to bring in troops, recommend suspension of the new constitution, and prorogue the House of Assembly during the recent crisis.

DR. JAGAN'S friends here express doubt that he will return to Guiana in the near future. His father, asked about this, said "I don't believe he will come back."

Strangely, too, Mrs. Sheila Burnham, wife of Lynden Burnham, former PPP education minister, is now in Trinidad. Lynden Burnham, who flew with Cheddi Jagan to London, plans a tour of India. And here in Guiana it is doubted also that the Burnhams will return in the near future.

But the future plans of Janet Jagan are obscure. It is said there was a marital rift between herself and her husband shortly before the general elections last April 27. Burnham and other party leaders realized at that time that a separation of the Jagans was a definite threat to the party interests and they worked fast to bring Cheddi and Janet together again.

—:—

IT WAS SUGGESTED that Cheddi wanted a divorce—and that Janet wanted to marry Gungadin. But the PPP leaders persuaded Janet to forego any romance with Gungadin and to spend a four-week vacation holiday in Barbados. Afterward, she and Cheddi became reconciled, it was said.

That demonstratin of family unity helped the party to success in the April elections. Now, however, mutual friends think the political crisis may have made their marital rift permanent.

While former PPP leaders display disunity, the Guiana situation is rapidly becoming normal. Two of the colony's largest sugar plantations which have been shut down for nearly five weeks are expected to resume operations almost immediately. If they do, British troops will protect the workers.

FUR HATS RETURN

NEW YORK (UP) — The fur hat missing for many years, is back. This time it brings a friend—the fake fur hat. Milliners are featuring real ermine, minks and leopard. Fake favorites include leopard-printed velvet, plush cut to look like broadtail, and wools knit to look like Persian lamb One style looks good with the sleek wool dress, the softly tailored suit, or the cloth coat.

The Pueblo of Zuni in western New Mexico has a form of worship centered on many gods, called Katchinas.

Archery Group Holds Roving Target Shoot

Don Davidson of Delaware shot a 398 to cop first place honors in the Marion Archers annual Roving Championship meet.

E. J. Leadenham and Frank Louck, both of Marion, finished second and third, respectively, while Don Inskeep of East Liberty came in fourth.

The meet, held last Sunday, consisted of 56 targets representing different animals and set at distances varying from 20 to 50 yards. William Hartman of Marion drew the targets in color.

Nine members of the Marion Archers entered the field of 218 archers in a state meet at Dayton on Oct. 27 with eight of them shooting better than the average score.

Leadenham was the top local representative, shooting a 257 to place fourth, 11 points behind the winner. Frank Louck of Marion and Charles Baker of near Marion placed 18th and 21st, respectively.

In a field meet sponsored by the Archers on Nov. 1 at Hickory Grove Lake, Louck took first place with Baker second and Leadenham third.

The Marion Archers now has a membership of 45. Anyone 16 or older may join.

HOW I LOST 43 LBS.
Wadsworth Lady Praises Rennel

Mrs Clyde Collier, R.R. 2, writes: "I am 66 years old and in the past few years had gained so much weight that I decided to do something about it. I decided to give Rennel Concentrate a trial. After the first bottle my health was so improved that I continued using it. When I started I weighed 179 lbs., and now weigh 136 lbs. I have lost 43 lbs. I feel so much better, and my friends all remark how much better I look."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose pounds of harmful fat in your own home. Make this safe home recipe. Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid RENNEL CONCENTRATE. Costs $1.40. Pour this into a pint bottle and add unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic with the first bottle, return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Now is the time to reduce. Ask your druggist for RENNEL.

'PLANE OF THE FUTURE' IN TEST FLIGHT. The Air Force's "flying stiletto," said to be the shape of planes to come, is pictured over the Southern California desert in test flight. The radically-designed craft, designated as X-3, is nearly three times as long as the wings are wide. Douglas Aircraft, the manufacturer, released first pictures of the plane, but said it has been test flown for more than a year.

Many Canadian, U.S. Peaks Scaled First Time in 1953

PHILADELPHIA (NANA)—Several North American peaks were climbed for the first time last summer, the American Alpine Club reports.

One of the first ascents was made by Dr. Archibald MacIntosh, vice president of Haverford College, a club member. He climbed an unnamed 10,300-foot peak in the Blackfriars, in Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies.

Three student members of the Haverford Mountaineers—Michael Shor, Michael Smith and Ronald Reno—joined MacIntosh in ascents of Mt. Edith Cavell, 11,033 feet, near Jasper, and several peaks in the Selkirk Range.

Other first ascents included the Grey Needle in the San Juan Range Colorado; Gibralter, Ravelin and West Blackfriar in the Selkirks, and at least three in the British Columbia Coast Range, in which Sterling Hendricks of Silver Spring, Md., took part.

Climbers had a banner year on 12,972-foot Mt. Robson, highest in Canada. It was climbed for the first time since 1939, and by five different parties.

In Alaska, the Seattle mountaineers made a first ascent of 13,760-foot Mt. Cook, and an unsuccessful assault on Mt. MacArthur, 14,400 feet. Bradford Washburn, of Boston, led parties on second ascents of two peaks in the Mt. McKinley region.

Capt. R. S. Fink, an A.A.C. member of Santa Ana, Calif., set a different kind of record. He climbed 14 14,000-foot peaks in Colorado in 13 days, bringing his U.S. total of ascents to 55.

The line brances with great-great - grandmother Victoria Strong a spry 91. Great-grandmother Eva's father, great-great-grandfather John F. Britton, is a hale 77.

San Francisco Remains Known For Good Food and Restaurants

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — San Franciscans learned to eat well 100 years ago when the gold miners came to town for a fling.

This habit of good food has resulted in a concentration of some of the world's finest restaurants in the one and a half square miles from the heart of the city along the bay to Fisherman's Wharf.

Only a few blocks from the fresh fish stalls at the wharf lies the famous Italian North Beach section where five-course dinners start with appetizers of small peppers, garbanzo beans, olives, crab and salami. There, too, couples stop after the theater for pizza or cappuccino, a drink of steaming hot chocolate and cognac.

Typical of gormet delights is veal scallopini as served by Chef Loui Tozzi in the old-world inn atmosphere at Veneto's. For two persons he flowers and browns in olive oil 10 ounces of thin, pounded young leg of veal cut in two by four inch strips. He then adds three or four pieces of rosemary oregano and finely ground chili pepper together with salt and pepper, one-half cup of chopped green onions and one cup sliced fresh mushrooms. He sautes this for 10 minutes, then adds three ounces of white wine and lets the dish simmer for 30 minutes.

In the downtown area is the Paris Louvre, home of flaming brandied desserts, and India House, featuring curried shrimp, crab, chicken and lamb. To the left on Telegraph Hill is the bohemian German dining spot, the Shadows.

Atop fashionable Nob Hill, Mexican dishes are found in the Fairmont Hotel's Papagayo Room. Nestled in Old Chinatown at the foot of the hill is the Lamps of China. Not far awa; is Yamoto's Sukiyaki restaurant, where guests sit on the floor Japanese style and try chop sticks.

In the heart of the city prime rib of beef is featured at the Clift Hotel's Redwood Room, rum drinks and Ragoon crab in the Polynesian atmosphere of Trader Vic's and Armenian delicacies at Omar Khayyam's.

St. Julien's in the city's financial section, serves abalone steak rolled in flour and egg and fried quickly in butter.

The landmark Palace Hotel features another dish native to San Francisco, salad as interpreted by Chef Lucien Heyraud. On a bed of lettuce is scattered chopped egg. In the center a tomato slice is topped by a large cooked artichoke heart filled to level with vegetable salad (string beans, cauliflower, asparagus tips and peas). Over this are placed five or six crab legs or large helpings of shrimp, lobster or chicken topped with two slices of red and green peppers. The whole is covered with a dressing made by combining one pint mayonnaise, two tablespoons each of catsup and chili sauce and one teaspoon each of chopped parsley, tarragon leaves, chives, green pepper and pimento.

Art on Watermelon Is Neat, Perishable

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Arthur Greenwood's outlet for his artistic impulses is the watermelon.

For 30 years, the genial restaurant man, a native of Greece, has made a hobby of carving landscapes, flowers, American flags, American Legion emblems and other adornments on the rinds of ripe watermelsons.

Greenwood said he started this hobby when he began scratching the words "back again" on the melons to signal the return of the season. He said people noticed the engraving and he was encouraged to sketch scenes.

He places the engraved melons in his restaurant window. They must be replaced every few days, however, as the rind dries and the white etched lines turn brown.

Greenwood said he has never taken art lessons, but that he works his scenes and patterns out mentally, then scrapes them out with a special engraving tool he fashioned from an oversized nail file.

Boomerangs are traditionally weapons of Australian aborigines, but similar weapons are found in Africa, India and America.

Americans 'Living It Up' Again

Specialty Foods Sale Hits Record High

By EDWARD MCGUIRE

NEW YORK (NANA)—Annual retail sales of specialty foods in the United States, for the first time in that phase of the food industry, passed the billion-dollar mark this year, according to Victor De Robertis, chairman of the retail stores division of the National Association For The Specialty Food Trade.

The figure, De Robertis reports, is based on records compiled by the reasearch committee of his division. "The actual mark reached," he revealed this week end, was $1,056,200,000 an unprecedented jump from previous years, even topping any of the lush '20's. Although this is the first year such a total was actually sought, we can tell from further investigation that the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 was, by far, the biggest in retail sales that the specialty food industy has ever seen. It shows a jump in the last decade of close to 300 per cent."

A GREAT PART of the retail sales of specialty foods in this country is handled through the mails. An imposing portion of these sales and of store sales are on imported product, although, according to De Robertis, who is also president of H. Hicks & Son here, "American packers ae becoming more and more conscious of this fine-food market. For example American olive packers have become highly selective as to grade of olives, picking out the larger olives and saving them for wholesaling to fancy-food stores.

"In our own stores, we get the largest fruits available for fruit baskets and only unblemished samples. Years back, the good fruits and olives were thrown in with the rest of the bunch. Now they're carefully picked out and sold only through the specialty food shops.

"The jump in sales and the reaching of the billion-dollar mark for this past fiscal year came about because of the growing acceptance by Americans for high quality foods and because of their inquisitiveness for new tastes and new discoveries in the food world. Such foods as imported cheeses, imported biscuits, cookies and candies, herbs and sauces and similar items have been the prime movers in this spiraling of sales.

"AT OUR SHOPS here in New York," De Robertis commented as the talk turned to food oddities, "we sell huge quantities of such hitherto untouched items in this country as: smoked mussels, fried worms, squid, octopus, snails, muskrat meat, whale meat, wild boar, buffalo steak, rare soups and sweet-tooth items. This shows that the public is growing more and more taste conscious, and food is becoming a hobby as well as a necessity.

"Another important factor is that gourmet foods are being imported and produced here in greater quantities. This, of course, has aided in bringing some prices within the reach of people in the medium-income brackets. With the prices due to continue downward, it is expected that the coming twelve months, for example, will see even a greater jump in gross sales.

"Last Christmas," De Robertis concluded, "the specialty food industry sold more than $200,000,000 worth of gift and fruit baskets in the U.S. This figure, too, was a record breaker—proving that people here are becoming conscious of food as a gift as well as items of interest to themselves. All in all, the specialty, food industry, now firmly established in America, faces its brightest era."

TOO SUCCESSFUL

After Far Bigger Dividends

$6 Million Yearly in Oil Royalties Just A Start for Arab Sheik in Middle East

By J. L. HAYS

DOHA, QATAR, ARABIA, —(NANA)—No football pools for Sheik Ali Bin Abdullah El Thani. He is after far, far bigger dividends than any ever produced by such trifling things.

He sits under the dusty palms along the beach of his Persian Gulf sheikdom of Qatar and turn an impassively patient face toward a small, white steamer turning and twisting through the muddy coastal waters. She is the oil prospecting ship, Shell Quest, and her passengers, scientists and geologists, have begun one of the biggest treasure hunts in history—new, far-reaching oilfields under the waters of the gulf. Hopes are high, too. American explorers are already test-drilling a big off shore field 400 miles farther north.

Additional encouragement for the patient Ali and the oilmen comes from recently voiced expert opinion that the world's shallow seas cover the world's greatest oil resources. Some fellow back in the U. S. has worked them out as amounting to a million million (yes, million repeat million) barrels. That would be just 250 times the world's present annual consumption.

THE OFFSHORE exploratory work costs about five times more than similar operations on land and only the wealthiest companies can afford a crack at it. But that does not worry Ali any.

Not a penny of his own money is being spent and the concession he granted recently to the "treasure-hunting" Shell Overseas Exploration Company guarantees him a 50-50 share in any profits eventually accruing.

Anyway, old Ali just cannot go wrong these days. His luck is fabulous. He can afford to wait. Only 18 years ago, Ali used to help row his own pearling and fishing boats and lived in extremely modest circumstances (to put it mildly) in the biggest of a huddle of mud huts, called Doha on the map. The mud huts then constituted the capital of Qatar, which was just about the dreariest spot in all the Middle East — 15,000 square miles of wind-swept, sunscorched sand, rocks, sandstone cliffs, scrub and palms. Even today, Ali's subjects do not number more than 18,000.

THEN ONE DAY Ali gave permission to a group of British oil prospectors to sink a few test wells, just on an off-chance. When World War II came along and the oilmen went to much trouble to block the test drillings, Ali guessed he was on a good thing.

With an easy mind he sat back and waited for the Allies to win the war. He was hardly surprised when the returning oilmen began paying him "provisional royalties" of $15,000 a week even before they started production.

Ali pulled his battered boats up on the beach, turned his back on his scanty date plantation (and on income rarely in excess of $30 a week and bought himself his first big American car to drive over the abbreviated network of roads laid down by the oilmen.

Then, late last year, out of the blue, the oilmen offered him a businesslike 50-50 agreement providing him with an annual income of at least $6,000,000 in royalties from the British-controlled Petroleum Development (Qatar) limited.

AND NOW, OF COURSE, the dump once known as Doha is booming. A rash of corrugated iron-roofed and concrete buildings is spreading alongside a 73-mile pipeline from the fields to new docks. Vast tank farms and office blocks are rising.

But Ali, modest, self-effacing and middle-aged, is banking on the twisting Shell Quest—using her air-conditioning, refrigerators and fresh-water plant to hold off the suffocating heat of the gulf—to put him up in the real money.

For, in the most fantastic game of keeping-up-with-the-Joneses in history, Ali's $6,000,000 a year is chicken feed among such neighbors as Saudi Arabia's late King Ibn Saud ($150,000,000 a year)—now going to son Ibn Abdulaziz Al Saud—and Kuwait's round little sheik Sir Abdullah Al Salim Al Sabah, with his expectation of $180,000,000 this year.

Ancient Rome built a road system that stretched from northern Scotland to the Euphrates river in Asia minor. arts of it are still in use.

NATO, Indo-China Attitude Weak

Britain, U.S. Will Endeavor To Stiffen French Backbone in Bermuda Meeting

By JAY G. HAYDEN

WASHINGTON (NANA) — The twice-postponed Bermuda conference of U S British and French chiefs of state convening Dec 4 has evolved almost exclusively into an American-British effort to stiffen France s backbone on two fronts

First, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill will make a final supreme effort to induce the French Chamber of Deputies to ratify the NATO pact for community defense of western Europe which the French government itself originated On that score Premier Laniel will be confronted with a flat choice of securing ratification of the treaty within the next 60 days or witnessing rearmament by Germany independently

Second, Eisenhower and Churchill will try to wean France away from a policy of scuttle-and-run in Indo-China which the same chamber of deputies is threatening

OF THESE TWO backslidings, Indo-China at this moment is much the more acute Just after Vice President Nixon at Saigon exhorted the French and Vietnamese natives to continue to fight "until victory is completely won" last week Premier Laniel told his parliament that France was not seeking "unconditional surrender"

"No more than the Americans in Korea," Laniel said, "shall we require unconditional surrender of the enemy to negotiate with him Not any more than the United States is France making war for war s sake, and if an honorable solution was in sight locally or internationally, France—I repeat, as the United States in Korea—would be happy to have a diplomatic solution of the conflict"

The immediate inducement of this statement by Laniel was the resignation by Rene Pleven, former prime minister and secretary of defense, from leadership of his Democratic and Social Union Party after the executive committee of that group voted in favor of suing for Indo-Chinese peace

A WEEK EARLIER Prime Minister Laniel had won a 317-to-251 vote in the Chamber of Deputies in favor of continuing the Indo-Chinese war, but this only after he had accepted a compromise to avert otherwise certain defeat.

The conditions laid down by the majority were (1) that the government must seek peace by negotiation, (2) develop as fast as possible armies of the three Indo-Chinese states to take over full responsibility for self-defense, and justly shared by all the free nations

No doubt the demand of the French people for relief from the terrific costs in both lives and treasure of the Indo-Chinese war is very real Particularly since France has offered virtually complete independence to the natives if and when the war ends, French citizens see the conflict as a total loss to themselves, no matter who wins it

STIMULATING FRENCH defeatism even more however, is the constantly increasing evidence of American interest in the Indo-Chinese war, expressed by our assumption of nearly two-thirds of the monetary and material cost of carrying it on

A good many prominent French politicans are advancing the idea that French withdrawal would mean simply that the United States, and whoever else in the United Nations might choose to help, would take over the bleeding and dying as well as the financial bill

Great Britain while it so far has avoided any assumption of Indo-Chinese burdens, may on account of the inevitably disastrous effect of defeat there on near-by British Hong Kong and Malaya be even more anxious than the U S. to keep the French fighting

Meanwhile, Laniel's task of securing French ratification of the NATO defense treaty seems equally difficult In fact, opposition with that regard comes from very much the same parliamentary factions that are trying to throw Indo-China overboard.

TWO FACTORS that conceivably may press the NATO to a successful conclusion are, first, the increasing obduracy of the Russians, and second, French fear of a rearmed Germany

On the first of these counts it is notable that Gen Charles De Gaulle last week declared that France should ask Russia for a direct "yes or no" answer on whether the Soviets can work out an agreement with the western world De Gaulle has been among the most vociferous opponents of the NATO treaty but it appears that he is finding that position uncomfortable since Russia's latest flat rejection of peace discussions

And Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany, recently returned to power by landslide vote, has made it unmistakably clear that Germany is going to arm, whether in or out of the NATO

Fast Treating Of Vets Urged

Army Physicians Say Speed Can Save Men

WASHINGTON (UP) — Three Army psychiatrists recently returned from Korea urge immediate treatment for battle-frightened men as the quickest way to "re-acquire their confidence and control."

The three doctors are stationed at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital here. One of them, Maj. Thomas T. Glasscock, feels that field doctors should be trained to recognize and treat the mentally sick soldier as soon as possible

"In this way," he said, "the number of men lost because of combat exhaustion can be cut down."

He added that if battle surgeons could deal "kindly but firmly with fear reaction and combat anxiety cases, most of the men could be brought to re-acquire their confidence and control."

When such rough-and-ready treatment is not effective and examination shows no physical disability the soldier is sent to the rear for psychiatric consultation.

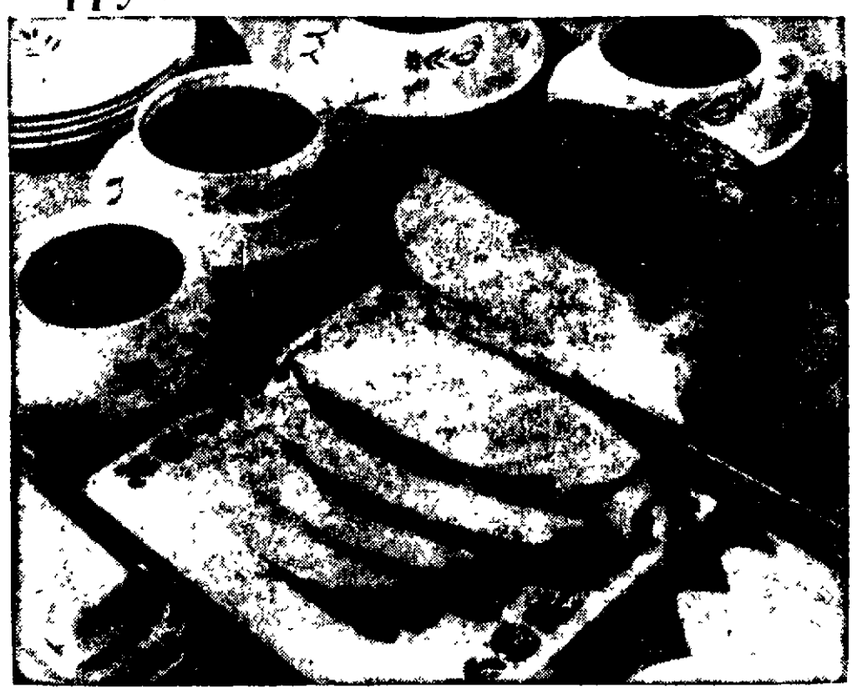
Maj. Richard L. Conde described the reasons for such treatment

"A man has more time to consider the case from a strictly individual standpoint the farther he is from combat. Get him back where the discomforts and perils of combat seem more remote."

Maj. Dermott A. P. Smith, who held frequent conferences with medical corpsmen both before and after battle, mentioned the importance of moral in preventing combat exhaustion and neurosis.

"Dry socks, regular mail, hot food when possible are important," he said. "And you can always do a lot for a soldier by being nice to him and making him feel that he belongs in the outfit."

Poppy-Seed Bread Is Best When Oven Hot



If you sometimes yearn for a slice of honest-to-goodness warm new bread, glistening with butter, here's a perfect recipe for you. Casserole poppy seed bread is fine textured and easy to bake

Bread making is not the long-drawn-out process it once was. You'll find this recipe easy to follow even though you've never made bread before. It requires only one rising period and a minimum of mixing

Use 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1½ tablespoons shortening, 1 cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast), 2 packages or cakes yeast, active-dry or compressed, 4½ cups sifted enriched flour, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon poppy seed.

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt and shortening. Cool in lukewarm. Measure water into bowl (warm, not hot water for active dry yeast, lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Add flour, stir until well blended, about 2 minutes. Cover, let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until tripled in bulk, about 40 minutes. Stir down. Beat vigorously about ½ minute. Turn into greased 2-quart casserole. Brush top with egg yolk diluted with a little water, sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 1 hr.

Cookbook Includes Complete Meat List

NEW YORK (UP) — Just about everything there is to say about America's No. 1 main course is covered in the latest cookbook on meat

John and Marie Roberson, old hands at cookbook writing, in their latest work, "The Meat Cookbook" (Henry Holt), discuss everything from Chateaubriand to cold cuts, from New England boiled dinner to Chinese steak with mushrooms.

The book also is a guide to buying, cutting, carving and storing the food which the authors say "accounts for at least a fourth of the average family food budget and three-fourths of a meal's success."

The Robersons include several recipes using economy cuts. Typical is this one for Creole steak:

1 pound flank steak, 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; 1 medium onion, chopped; 1 clove garlic, mashed; 2 green peppers, cut in 1-inch squares; 1 cup celery, cut in 1-inch pieces; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; and one 10-ounce can condensed tomato soup

Slice steak into thin ribbons 4 or 5 inches long. Brown in fat, stirring constantly. Lower the flame, add onion and garlic, and stir until onion becomes transparent. Add peppers, celery, seasonings and soup. Cover. Cook over low heat until meat and vegetables are tender, about 1 hour. Serve very hot. Serves four.

Suggested accompanying menu: chicken broth garnished with chopped water cress, fluffy rice, avocado salad, and date and nut torte.

Feast of Turkey Makes You Thankful

Stuffed and Baked Yams Add a Treat to Every Thanksgiving Meal

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Thanksgiving dinner is one meal every family likes to eat in style. You get out your best linen, china and silver. Traditional dishes put on holiday airs. But serving an elegant dinner doesn't have to mean endless work in the kitchen. Here are some ways of achieving festivity with minimum work.

Let's start with the turkey. All the bird needs is a garnish of parsley or water cress to complement his gorgeous golden-brown and keep him from looking lonely on a big platter—any more elaborate garnish only handicaps the carver.

BIG TURKEY EATING EVENT with yams and trimmings.

The stuffing? Use your favorite recipe for bread stuffing and then fancy it up with boiled chestnuts, sliced canned mushrooms or oysters.

Potatoes? Serving both Irish potatoes and golden yams is traditional at many American holiday tables. If the white potatoes are to be mashed, make them extra-special by adding lots of butter and cream. You can be thrifty or diet other days—this treatment of mashed potatoes makes them sheer velvet.

A wonderful way to serve the yams is to bake and stuff them, adding crisp little bits of toasted blanched almonds as a divine taste accompaniment to the turkey. If you have room in your oven, you can bake the yams while the turkey's roasting at a 325F. temperature. If not, you can bake and stuff them ahead, refrigerate them and then reheat. Remember to plan your schedule so the turkey comes out of the oven 20 or 30 minutes before it is to be sliced. This gives the meat a chance to absorb the juices and helps the carver. It also gives you leeway for reheating the yams.

Cranberry sauce looks celebration-bound when you serve it in orange cups. Just save the scooped out orange halves from breakfast and scallop the edges with a small sharp knife; pile the sauce into the cups, waft a drift of freshgrated orange rind over the top, and serve one orange-cup to each person.

Don't forget to add that sprinkle of paprika to the creamed onions or cauliflower; it's the little things like this that make a world of difference.

And so to dessert. Pumpkin pie? Of course! But have you ever served it with vanilla ice cream? Try this elegant touch—it's out of this world.

Old-fashioned steamed pudding with hard sauce? Here's a tip: use part brown sugar in the hard sauce and add a bit of rum flavoring. Scrumptious!

BAKED STUFFED YAMS

Ingredients: 4 medium-size yams, 1-3 cup butter or margarine, 1-3 cup milk, ½ cup chopped toasted almonds, 1 teaspoon salt.

Method: Wash yams thoroughly, bake in slow (325F) oven for 1 hour, or until tender. Cut baked yams in half lengthwise; scoop yams from shells. Mash yams with butter and milk. Add chopped toasted almonds and salt; mix well. Pile yam mixture into shells; place on broiler rack. Broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat about 5 minutes, or until lightly browned. Top with whole toasted almonds, if desired.

Care Urged in Picking Dresses for Evenings

NEW YORK (UP) — Even if you get into an evening dress only a few times a season, it is the one garment in the wardrobe supposed to turn you into a Cinderella for a night.

To make sure you get your money's worth in glamor, designer Ceil Chapman, a specialist in formal wear, gives some pointers in shopping for a special dress.

The short evening dress is proper this season but the long evening skirt also has its place in fashion.

"Unless your legs and ankles are your best features," she said, "select the long skirt."

Both the sheath and bouffant skirted evening clothes are good style, but Miss Chapman recommended the slim lines for the woman on the short side. The sleeker, heavier fabrics are more slenderizing than the nets and laces.

A final tip: There is more "cover up" in evening wear this year. Most dresses have at least some sleeve or a softening drape at the top.

About 65 per cent of the families in the United States own automobiles.

North Carolina College Builds Own Reactor for Atomic Study

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—A dribble of clear yellow uranium 235 fed into a small tube activated the nation's first privately owned, nonsecret atomic reactor at North Carolina State College here and will keep the atomic furnace blasting for at least 300 years.

The reactor, on public view to anyone interested, is a surprisingly small structure that looks like a concrete pillbox.

It required 17 hours of painstaking, methodic steps by scientists to make the reactor "critical"—operate under its own power after the precious fuel, on loan from the Atomic Energy Commission was inserted.

Big red globes flash continuously atop the massive concrete structure, showing it is operating. In a remote control room overlooking the sunken chamber housing the reactor is a complicated maze of lights, dials, switches and meters. Needles flicker on the remote control console panels and across the face of equipment lining two walls.

There is a constant accompaniment of static indicating minimum radiation continuing within the heart of the reactor even when it has been turned off.

The reactor will be devoted exclusively to teaching and research on development of peace-time uses of atomic energy.

Dr. Clifford Beck, director and designer of the reactor, started the atomic "furnace" by pushing a tiny lever. There was a gradual increase in the volume and rate of static and needles measuring radiation output moved slowly to the right across several dials.

The sound increased. The dials moved farther. Beck pushed another lever boosting radioactivity in much the same way that a driver's foot on the gas pedal steps up the speed of a car.

"At first we'll operate at low levels," Beck explained, "increasing the output gradually. At maximum power it will generate the equivalent in radiation of more than $200,000,000 worth of radium."

The reactor cannot be made to explode, even if operated at maximum power continuously, Beck said. Built-in safety devices will shut off the reactor automatically in the event the safety instruments detect an abnormal operating condition.

The radioactive heart of the reactor is "surrounded by shielding several times more massive than could ever by necessary," Beck said. Around the stainless steel cylinder containing the diluted uranium 235 are 13 tons of graphite, 13 tons of lead and nearly 200 tons of concrete. The concrete walls are six feet thick.

The liquid uranium became radioactive only after a precise amount—about 787 grams—was poured down the tube in alternation with various amounts of water until the steel cylinder contained about four gallons of fluid. At that time the shape and mass made the reactor "critical."

Radiation of the diluted Uranium 235 is controlled by two boron rods 12 inches long and three-quarter inches in diameter. Radiation is at full power when the rods are withdrawn by remote control levers and is stopped when the rods are extended full length into the fuel. Output is controlled by the amount of boron rod extending into the fuel.

Around the face of the reactor are about 15 holes covered with small doors with combination locks. For experiments, a door can be opened, a concrete plug removed and materials exposed to radiation within the furnace or to a beam of neutrons streaming from the reactor across a space of nearly 30 feet and through a hole in the opposite wall, leading to the ground outside.

"The earth itself is an excellent shielding material to absorb excess radiation," Beck said.

The reactor's radiation will be used as a research tool in cooperation with medical schools, agriculture and agronomy and other studies.

One study will be to find out how to "get heat out into effective forms for producing power," Beck said.

The reactor is housed in a $380,000 one-story building which also includes 15 laboratories and an observation room overlooking the sunken reactor. The observation room has panels of heavy, water-cushioned glass.

Burlington Mills Foundation donated $200,000 for the building, and other funds were provided by the North Carolina legislature and N. C. State.

Water Fluorination Termed Successful

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Sample surveys of school children in seven California cities show fluorinated drinking water reduces tooth decay 50 to 66 per cent, the public health department has reported.

Dr. Lloyd Richards, head of the dental health division, said the percentage figure was obtained from surveys of children between 9 to 15 years old who had lived all their lives in Lemoore, Fillmore, South Pasadena, Palm Springs, Brawley and El Centro.

The percentage range, he said, was caused by varied fluoride content in the areas from .5 to 1.2 parts for each million parts of water. In the six cities, children on the average had 62 per cent less tooth decay than children in areas without fluorinated water.

A seventh survey conducted in Coalinga in a cross-section sample of children to 10 years old showed 50 per cent less tooth decay than in nonfluoride areas. Richards said However, this study employed both children who had lived in the area all of their lives and those who had recently arrived in the city.

Coalinga has water containing the ideal one part of fluoride for each million parts of water. Richards said this combination affords a maximum protection from tooth decay without danger of yellow-brown stain on teeth.

Britain Lays Claim to Smartest Residents of the Ancient World

LONDON (UP)—The more British scientists learn about prehistoric man on this island the more they believe he was not the blue-painted barbarian of legend but probably one of the smartest apples of the ancient world.

He made better stone axes than anyone else and exported them to Europe in the Stone Age—probably before the English Channel was formed.

He seemed to have understood the principle of perspective foreshortening in architecture about 1,000 years before the ancient Greeks.

He probably did a brisk trade with Greece 3,500 years ago.

He "mapped" southern England, where he was concentrated, so that even today anyone with the key can follow the short cuts through the hills and fords over the rivers h figured out before recorded time.

He knew astronomy, too

The prehistoric Briton pops into the scientific news today because of a remarkable stroke of luck which befell Prof. Stuart Piggott of the University of Edinburgh and a colleague.

They were examining Stonehenge, the mighty stone ruin of Wiltshire, when the slating rays of the setting sun struck one of the rough stone columns. In its light they saw something that had somehow been overlooked by the thousands who have minutely examined the mysterious monument over the centuries.

It was a carving of a bronze dagger of a type used at Nycenae in Greece 3,500 years ago. This, in the opinion of other scientists, tends to confirm that the ancient Briton traded with Greece at least that long ago.

Dr Gordon Childe of the University of London also pointed out that this helped date the monument and, since its architect used perspective foreshortening, he evidently knew about it 1,000 years before it appeared in the classical age of Greece.

But Stonehenge — which may have been a pagan cathedral or shrine and is popularly believed to have been a sacrificial altar of the Druids—may be even older.

Samples of charcoal taken from wood burned in the holes at Stonehenge in the slick process used to slide the 14-foot stone columns into place were submitted to the University of Chicago for analysis

The Institute of Nuclear Studies there estimated from its radio-carbon content that it had been burned 3,798 years ago—give or take a couple of centuries. This agrees significantly with a date of June 21, 1840 B. C.—3,793 years ago—given by some astronomers for a possible summer rite at Stonehenge.

They believe that the monument was designed so on that day the first rays of sunrise would stream along its axis. If this is true, it implies a shrewd knowledge of astronomy.

Meanwhile Prof. E A. Rudge is looking for more "pudding-stones." He says Bronze Age Britons used these distinctive stones to mark their footpaths and trade routes over southern England.

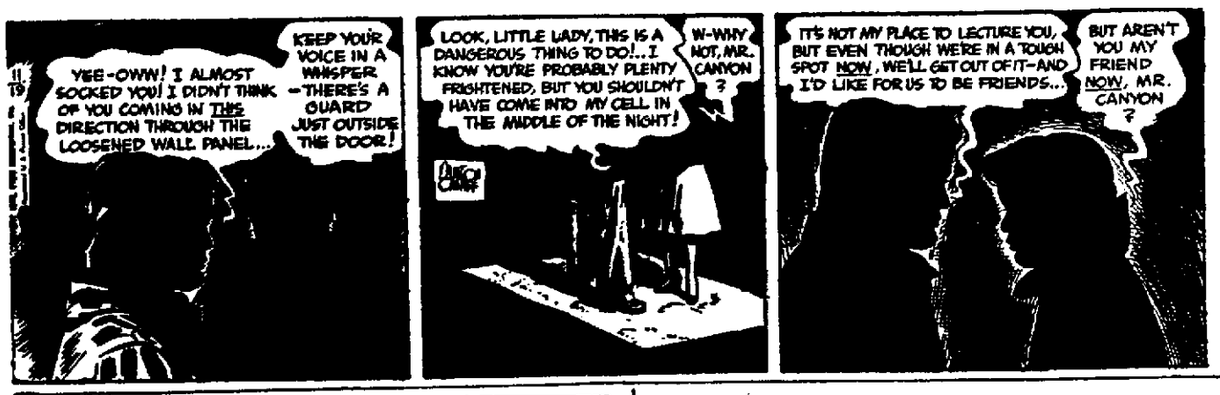
STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff



YEE-OWW! I ALMOST SOCKED YOU! I DIDN'T THINK OF YOU COMING IN THIS DIRECTION THROUGH THE LOOSENED WALL PANEL...
KEEP YOUR VOICE IN A WHISPER —THERE'S A GUARD JUST OUTSIDE THE DOOR!
LOOK, LITTLE LADY, THIS IS A DANGEROUS THING TO DO!.. I KNOW YOU'RE PROBABLY PLENTY FRIGHTENED, BUT YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE COME INTO MY CELL IN THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT!
W-WHY NOT, MR. CANYON ?
IT'S NOT MY PLACE TO LECTURE YOU, BUT EVEN THOUGH WE'RE IN A TOUGH SPOT NOW, WE'LL GET OUT OF IT—AND I'D LIKE FOR US TO BE FRIENDS...
BUT AREN'T YOU MY FRIEND NOW, MR. CANYON ?

Captain Builds Own Boat Over Wife's Protests

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — It will take more than advancing age and the protests of his wife to stop Capt. Charles N. Drake from building his own all-steel, 65-foot towboat.

"Can you imagine!" the 74-year-old river-boat captain exclaimed. "My wife says I'm too old. But I just want to get back into the thick of things."

And Drake has been doing just that for the past four years.

The boat, dubbed the Lorene E. is nearly completed and standing high on the levee along the Mississippi River.

"All that's lacking now is installation of the engines, some finishing touches and some high water," Drake said.

He has followed no plans or blueprints in building the tall, sturdy craft, just the ideas gathered from years of boating experience. It will have housing for an eight-man crew and draft shallow enough to enable it to go almost anywhere.

Drake, a riverman from 'way back, spent his boyhood on his grandfather's packet boats. He has operated riverboats more than half a century and doesn't feel like quitting now.

"I can still stand at a pilot wheel 13 hours at a stretch and then some," he said.

But Drake used a little psychology to handle the prpotests of his wife. He got the name, Lorene E. by using portions of the names of his daughter, wife and daughter-in-law—Lola Belle, Irene and Elizabeth, respectively.

"Doesn't pay to get the womenfolks too mad," the old-timer commented.

Indian Rainmakers Use Near Modern Methods

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) — Modern rainmakers and primitive Hopi Indian rain dances have more than just a little in common, according to the theory of a former Salt Lake City man now living in Los Alamos.

John McDonald witnessed a ceremonial dance and noticed the Indians built huge bonfires. At the climax of the dance they tossed their silver bracelets and other jewelry into the blaze.

The theory is that the silver oxidizes and goes up in vapor as silver oxide, the same chemical meteorologists use in seeding clouds.

The result in both cases is the same, rain. Sometimes.
